

Viet Nam Turmoil Speeds Up Election Schedule, Rusk Says

Secretary Testifies Before Foreign Relations Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today the result of political turmoil in Viet Nam has been to "speed up the time table" for elections in that troubled country.

Rusk, the first Cabinet officer to be questioned in public by senators since the drive for elections broke out in Viet Nam during congress's Easter recess, said he understood the election of a constitution-making assembly will be held in August.

"It has been apparent throughout these recent discussions that there is general agreement among all of the participants that they reject the Viet Cong and the efforts of Hanoi to impose a political solution upon the South by force," said Rusk. He added:

Solid Basis

"It is important of course that these political processes proceed on the basis of solidarity on the eventual aims with respect to South Viet Nam even though, as we ourselves learn, the construction of a basic constitutional arrangement is a complicated and difficult matter."

Rusk's testimony came after Barry Goldwater charged President Johnson is playing politics with the Vietnamese war by trying to keep it at "a low level" to save Democratic seats in next fall's congressional elections.

"We're not exerting our full power against the enemy, and I don't think that is playing fair with the men who are being drafted and the men who are being sent over to Viet Nam," Johnson's 1964 GOP presidential opponent said in a copyright interview in U. S. News and World Report.

Goldwater's volley came as Congress returns full force to face the Vietnamese political storm that broke during the

The big question: What now? In going before the Foreign Relations group, Rusk once again was facing the questions of a committee that has been a hotbed of congressional criticism of Johnson's Asian policies.

But chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he didn't think "there will be any fireworks." Another senior Democrat, Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama expressed belief the committee could discuss the situation with Rusk — and with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Wednesday — "and not cause an explosion."

Committee Mood

The committee's mood, said Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., may depend on Rusk — "to the extent he is frank with us. There is no use kidding ourselves, we are in trouble. We can't correct a problem by ignoring it."

The reason for Rusk's and McNamara's appearances before the committee is to support the administration's foreign aid requests. The hearings are to be televised nationally.

Goldwater expressed doubt the United States was doing all it could to "insure the stability in Saigon."

"The new civil disturbances over there — especially the demonstrations — I've looked upon as Communist inspired. . . . If it keeps on as a continuing civil war, then I think we're in a very bad fix," Goldwater said.

Stable Government

The lack of a stable government in Saigon is one reason, Goldwater said, why the United States isn't making more progress in Viet Nam.

A second reason, he said, is

African Paper Says Rhodesia Still Getting Oil

More Being Moved Overland Than Big Tankers Carry

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The British campaign to keep the tankers Manuella and Ioanna V from delivering oil to Rhodesia made big headlines, but the rebellious African colony is still getting more oil each month overland than either ship carried, a South African newspaper reported today.

Johannesburg's Rand Daily Mail said the flow of oil from South Africa to Rhodesia averages between 140,000 and 160,000 gallons daily — double the amount required under current rationing quotas.

The newspaper gave this report:

News Report

A survey last week showed that each day at least 45,000 gallons were shipped by trucks and 100,000 gallons by rail. An unidentified oil company official said oil firms favored the cheaper rail routes from Lourenco Marques, in Portuguese Mozambique.

Most of the truck hauling is now done by an unnamed American oil company and South African agents. The Portuguese are supplying about 10 per cent of the fuel shipped by rail.

The Greek tanker Manuella, carrying 15,000 tons of crude oil originally destined for Rhodesia, was reported Sunday heading for Rotterdam after five days in Durban, South Africa.

Boarding Party

The Manuella was turned away from the Mozambique port of Beira by a British naval boarding party April 10 under a U.N. Security Council resolution authorizing Britain to use force against tankers trying to put into Mozambique to evade the British oil embargo against Rhodesia.

Red China Withdraws Aid to Indonesians

TOKYO (AP) — Angered by the sacking of its embassy in Jakarta, Communist China told Indonesia's new government today it is terminating its economic assistance and withdrawing Chinese experts.

The Chinese action came three days after 2,000 Indonesians of Chinese descent sacked the Chinese Embassy in Jakarta. They were voicing their disapproval of Peking's hostile attitude toward Indonesia's anti-Communist regime.

Bomb Missile Sites at Fringe Area of Hanoi

Closest Raid To Capital of N. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force jets smashed two Soviet-built missile sites on the outskirts of Hanoi in the closest raid yet to the North Vietnamese capital and left two key bridges in ruins, U.S. spokesmen reported today.

Another group of Navy fighter-bombers set off a huge explosion at a suspected missile site 27 miles south of the coastal city of Vinh, 160 miles south of Hanoi, silenced seven nearby anti-aircraft batteries and sank a junk.

Led by target-marking F100 Super Sabre jets in clear afternoon skies, a pack of Air Force supersonic F105 Thunderchiefs began the raid around Hanoi Sunday by hurling 750-pound bombs at a bridge 33 miles south of the capital on the road to the chief port of Haiphong.

Span Wrecked

The span was put out of commission, a spokesman said.

The jets then moved closer to the capital blasting a missile site 15 miles south of the city and another 17 miles southwest with rockets and 20mm cannon fire. A huge explosion rocked one of the missile complexes, a pilot reported. The airmen spotted rockets on the launching pads just before they roared in but only one missile was set up. It missed.

Three other flights of Thunderchiefs struck the main railroad bridge between Hanoi and Vinh with 750-pound bombs, leaving it completely "sagged, twisted and definitely unserviceable," a spokesman said. The bridge was hit last November but had been rebuilt, he said.

5 Planes Lost

The loss of five more U.S. planes in the past three days raised the number brought down in the 15-month-old air war against North Viet Nam to 210. But only two fliers were reported lost over the weekend.

An A1H Navy Skyraider was lost to conventional ground fire this afternoon three miles south of Tiger Island and just north of the 17th Parallel frontier. The

Soviet Firepower Demonstrated in Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Communist Cuba marked the fifth anniversary of its Bay of Pigs victory Sunday with a demonstration of fire power by Soviet warplanes and tanks.

While Cubans watched from shore and on television, MIG15 and MIG21 jets teamed up with T55 tanks to sink a small unmanned freighter in Havana harbor.

A television announcer drummed at the claim that the MIG21 could out-perform any warplane the United States possesses.

GNP Rises Sharply in First Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gross national product, the value of all goods and services produced in the economy, rose sharply during the first quarter of this year, to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $714 billion, the Commerce Department reported today.

The jump was much larger than administration officials anticipated in January and could add new fuel to the continuing debate over the need for a tax increase as a hedge against inflation.

The $17-billion rise represented a 2.5 per cent gain over the fourth quarter of 1965, but the Commerce Department's Office of Business Economics said the figures are preliminary and incomplete and subject to revision next month.

President Johnson, in his budget submitted to Congress in January, forecast a gross national product of between $717 billion and $727 billion during 1966 but more recently government officials have talked of a gross national product totaling $730 billion to $735 billion this year.

Two Persons Killed In Waupaca Crash

Deaths Hike State Toll to 226; County's First Traffic Fatalities

WAUPACA — Waupaca County's first traffic fatalities of the year were recorded Sunday when a resident of the Grand Army Home for Veterans, King, and a Milwaukee woman were killed in a head-on crash six miles west of Waupaca on State 54.

Dead are Alic A. Cyran, 68, of the veteran's home and Mrs. Gustave Rieger, 42, 2950 N. 59th St., Milwaukee.

Gustav Rieger, 50, the dead woman's husband; their 12-year-old daughter, Heidi, and Leonard L. Stenson, 59, 604 N. Main St., Oshkosh, driver of the car Cyran was riding in, all were listed in serious condition at Waupaca Riverside Hospital.

Six Deaths

A total of four weekend highway deaths, another fatality early today and a death resulting from an April 14 accident, raised the 1966 state highway death toll to 226 as compared to 236 one year ago.

William A. Weiss, 21, of Allenton, was killed Saturday night when the car in which he was riding struck a telephone pole north of St. Lawrence.

Seven-year-old Steve Adams was struck and killed by a car Saturday as he crossed a Rusk County road near his home near Ladysmith.

William C. Higgins, Jr., 28, of Woodstock, Ill., was killed today when his car struck a bridge abutment on Interstate 90 south of Janesville.

Charles Wanner, 83, of Allenton, who was injured in an accident April 14 died Sunday. Authorities said his car ran off State 25, one mile south of Hillsdale, and struck a mailbox.

Passes Tractor

The Waupaca County crash occurred at approximately 10 a.m. Sunday. According to a witness, Rieger was traveling west, had just passed a farm tractor and was pulling back into his lane of traffic when he crashed head-on with the Stenson car which was traveling east.

Waupaca County Traffic Police Capt. John Penney said it appeared Stenson attempted to stop and in doing so his car went onto the right shoulder of the highway. According to the skid marks, it then veered toward the center of the road. There were no skid marks left by the Rieger car.

The tractor Rieger passed was being driven by Carroll Jensen, route 1, Waupaca. Jensen told police Rieger slowed down as if to follow the tractor until it got out of a no-passing zone, but then passed. "The Rieger car was not back into the north lane of traffic when the cars collided," Jensen said. Both the Rieger car and the tractor were in a no-passing zone approaching a slight incline.

Mrs. Rieger was listed as dead on arrival at the Waupaca Hospital and Cyran lived for approximately 10 minutes after arrival. Both died of head injuries. Cyran was thrown from the car by the impact of the crash.

Stenson suffered a fractured left leg and severe head and face lacerations and a possible skull fracture. He was pinned in the wreckage of his car for several minutes before police.

For State Employees

Arizona Loyalty Oath Struck Down by Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down today an Arizona law requiring a loyalty oath of all state employees.

Justice William O. Douglas delivered the 5-4 decision. Justice Byron R. White wrote a dissenting opinion. Justices Tom C. Clark, John M. Harlan and Potter Stewart joined in the White's opinion.

The court ruled on an appeal by Mrs. Barbara Elfbandt, a public school teacher of Tucson who refused to sign the oath, who "decided she could not in the law says public employees good conscience take the oath, who refuse to sign must be taken off the payroll, although not having any chance to get a discharged. Mrs. Elfbandt has hearing at which its precise scope and meaning could be determined."

Free Speech

She contended the requirement denied her right of free association and free speech. She is a member of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers), but her attorney emphasized before the Supreme Court that the fact was not being argued in the case.

Vernon Elfbandt, husband of Mrs. Elfbandt, likewise refused to sign and has taught for eight years without pay. The attack on the state law was brought in her name only.

Estimates were made that if she won the case, the Elfbandts would likely collect back pay of about $50,000. The former Spokane, Wash., couple have received financial aid from friends and supporters of their beliefs.

Threatened Freedom

Douglas said in his majority opinion the Arizona act "threatens the cherished freedom of association protected by the First Amendment."

History of Power Struggles

Viet Nam Buddhists, Military Widely Separated in Background

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Nam's top Buddhist leaders and the ruling military high command have two things in common. They are Vietnamese, and their average age is 38.

Otherwise, in their background education and viewpoint of the world they are completely different.

This largely explains why in the three years since the Buddhists and the military united to overthrow President Ngo Dinh Diem, the political history of Viet Nam has been a series of power struggles between the two groups.

Such a struggle is taking place now. If the Buddhists win this struggle and dominate the proposed National Assembly, then the history of Viet Nam the next year may be vastly different from the last.

Common Enemy

The Buddhists and the military united against Diem as a common enemy. But there is no common enemy now.

"The Americans and the Communists must go," says Thich Quang Lien, 39, a Yale graduate, pacifist, and a ranking Buddhist leader.

"Who will gain victory in this war?" Quang Lien asks. "Who will suffer defeat?"

He answers, "Whatever happens, our people suffer."

Quang Lien, as general commissioner for education, culture and social affairs, is just one voice in the Buddhist hierarchy. But his pacifism and chronic anti-Americanism seem ironic in a man who greets fellow Yalermen with a big grin and the cry, "Bolla, bolla."

Other Buddhist leaders talk less about the American presence and the Viet Cong. They refer vaguely to the Viet Cong in terms of wayward members of the flock rather than the enemy.

There seems no doubt that the Buddhists want peace and want it soon. They see the war from the point of view of the peasants and the war refugees who flock to the pagodas for haven and guidance as the war widens.

It was from within the lower

Party a Success Without 'Computer Pairing'

It was all to have been very scientific. The questionnaire was skillfully devised, asking for pertinent personality and interest information. The same numbers of boys' and girls' tickets were printed. The Appleton Youth Council had the entire project under control.

Then the computer that would have paired high school boys and girls with their ideal dates broke down.

Fortunately, the high school set has little trouble finding partners on its own—even though the method may be less than scientific.

Friday evening, computer or not, the students arrived at St. Joseph School. There were music, refreshments, dancing, and the promise that next time, the Youth Council would see that the computer was in order.

Mike Connolly was dance chairman, assisted by Jay Hagman, Nick Retson, Dave Sprowl, Joann Redford and Tom Putzer.

There Was Plenty of Sound for those who wanted to dance at St. Joseph School gym Friday evening. Couples were originally to have been paired by computer, but a series of misfortunes forced the committee to postpone this part of the venture. Dancing above are Peggy Dietz, Kate Kowley, Jay Hagman and Michael Connolly. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Hard Way Explained By Hand

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

On one of my recent trips to Las Vegas a friend talked so much about "four, the hard way" that I had to ask him what he meant. Those of us who lead sheltered lives will be glad to know that he was talking about a bridge hand.

If East had returned a diamond at the second trick, dummy would win. South would get to his hand with a club to lead a heart. East would take the king with the ace and return another diamond.

West would win with the king of diamonds and lead another trump, thus reducing declarer to one ruff in the dummy. South would therefore lose a trick in each suit. "That's an easy defense," my friend pointed out, "so that the defenders get four tricks the easy way."

Leads Club

Actually East led a club at the second trick. South put up the ace and led a heart, losing the king to East's ace. East returned a heart, and South ruffed.

South cashed the king of clubs, ruffed a club in dummy, ruffed a heart and led his last club. South discarded the queen of hearts, and South ruffed with dummy's queen of trumps.

Now South had to get back to draw trumps. He cashed the ace of diamonds, and West thoughtfully dropped the queen. On the next diamond East stepped up with the nine, holding the trick.

East led his last heart, and West was sure to get the setting trick with his ten of spades. If South ruffed low, West could over-ruff; and if South ruffed with an honor he could not draw the ten.

"That's a very hard defense," I remarked. "Exactly," my friend agreed. "That's why we call it getting four the hard way."

So now we all know what they think about in Las Vegas.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S A H A 10 9 4, D J 9 5 4, C Q J 7 5. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three hearts. This shows strong trump support (at least four to the queen) with about 13 to 16 points, counting distribution as well as high cards.

Mark Mayer, Above, leans forward to catch every word the puppets say. Obviously delighted with the performance, Lori Villard, at right, clasps her hands during the performance of "Rabbit and Skunk and the Big Fight."

Young Spectators Enthralled by 'Battle'

"Rabbit and Skunk and the Big Fight" provided excitement for 86 pre-school youngsters Tuesday at the Appleton Public Library.

The youthful audience, regular members of the weekly children's hour, were invited to the special Easter week puppet show by library employees, who adapted and produced the 20-minute story from one of the popular children's books.

Manipulating the puppets were Miss Barbara Klimek, assistant to the children's librarian, and Mrs. David Veeder, assistant to the cataloguer. Miss Marie Jakl, acting children's librarian, supervised the effort.

Second Effort

The idea for the Easter-time show was taken from the annual Christmas play. Miss Jakl and her co-workers hope to make the performance an annual Easter event.

Preparations took about a month, including adapting the story, obtaining the 'performers' and collecting props and scenery.

The youngsters obviously appreciated the puppeteers' work, for they devoted their rapt attention to the active performance, full of the verve and bounce of the old Punch and Judy shows.

They Loved It

"The response was terrific!" exults Miss Jakl. "It was just wonderful!"

Six other performances were given during the week at the library for children from the YMCA nurseries and the Appleton Cooperative nurseries.

The Center of Attraction for the pre-schoolers at the library was the stage of the puppet theater. The most exciting moment for the audience was that of the fight and all its action. At left, Amy Jean Harthun sits enraptured as the performance unfolds. (Post-Crescent Photos by Edward Deschler Jr.)

Reader Claims Girl's Most Precious Gift Is Her Mind

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whenever I read something in your column that burns me up I promise myself I'll sit down and write a letter to straighten you out, but I have never gotten mad enough. Until now. Yesterday you went too far.

You told a girl she was a fool because she had given away her most precious gift — meaning her virginity. How naive can you be? The gift of the flesh can be the emptiest and most meaningless gift of all. A girl can give her body and make no real commitment.

to know why American males in public life always want to be photographed with mom. He asked if America is really a matriarchy and if it is true that in most American families, mom's voice is the one that is heard loudest and longest. You said, "Yes, it is true."

I am not challenging your answer, Ann, but in the interest

Landers

Any female can give her virginity, but the girl who can give her mind gives the most precious gift of all. I would like to hear your defense. If you can think of one. — A Believer in Stratified Love

Dear Love: Your statement that any girl can give her virginity was a trifle incomplete. You should have added the word "once."

I hope you don't give too many fellows the gift of your mind. Love, because from the sound of your letter you don't have a great deal to of fairness you might have explained why it is true.

I am a wife who is head of the house and I'd give anything if I weren't I have begged my husband to take an interest in the children but he refuses. He says that's my job. He has never taken our sons fishing or to a baseball game or a football game. He insists that he goes strictly for business reasons and he must invite clients.

I don't want to imply that my husband is mean to the children. He simply ignores them.

To a less than astute observer I probably look like a domineering female who has shoved her husband out of the driver's seat. The truth is simply that my husband is too selfish and too immature to accept his role as a father, so I must do his job. So please, Ann, tell your readers not to leap to conclusions when they see an aggressive woman at the head of a family. It may well be that she had no choice. — Pennsylvania Matriarch

Dear Matriarch: Your letter was only one of the hundreds which expressed the same point of view. Thank you for

WSES Plans To Conduct Job Survey

The Wisconsin State Employment Service (WSES) will conduct a statewide job vacancy survey in April, according to A. P. Engebretson, district manager of the Appleton - Neenah-Menasha office of the employment service.

Questionnaires will be mailed to 3,000 Wisconsin employers, and the tabulated results will be analyzed as guides for planning training programs and for use in vocational counseling. Engebretson said that no attempt will be made to solicit employer job orders unless an employer asks for employment service help in filling his job openings. He also stated that it is important that firms with no vacancies report this fact so that the total estimate of job vacancies will not be exaggerated.

All employers receiving the questionnaire were urged by Engebretson to cooperate in the survey so that a true picture of Wisconsin's labor and job resources can be drawn.

Wisconsin Employment Figures Show Increase

MADISON (AP) — The State Industrial Commission reported today that Wisconsin's March employment figures were up, and unemployment figures were down.

"The current employment figures represents a peak March total for Wisconsin," the commission said, "and reflects the healthy economic climate that exists throughout the entire state."

Total employment for March was 1,661,800, a gain of 15,800 from February and 54,600 from March a year ago.

Another Step in a Romance that began in Holland in 1960 took place Friday when Mrs. Ray Hoelzel, 1041 Gillingham Road, Neenah, became a naturalized American citizen. The romance began when Hoelzel met Roselotte at a vacation resort near Amsterdam, Holland, while on a Post-Crescent tour. They corresponded and Hoelzel went back to Germany in 1962 where they were married. Ray and their son Henry, 2, watched as Circuit Judge Donald W. Youth Keeps Referring To Absence of Attorney

Richard Cornelius Sits Mute As Panel of Jurors Selected

Richard Allen Cornelius this morning made 14 references to the fact that he was without an attorney as his arson trial jurors was reduced to 12 — began before a 12-member jury in Outagamie County Court Branch No. 2.

Cornelius, 20, Milwaukee, is charged with three counts of arson, all constituting felonies and one count of criminal trespass, a misdemeanor, in connection with fires early Oct. 31 that destroyed Immaculate Conception Catholic Church and two barns in the Town of Oneida.

Cornelius, on questions by County Judge Urban P. VanSusteren, 14 times refused to say anything other than to call

Benefit Motorcycle Race for Retarded Turns Into Rumble

Priest Beaten, Taverns Ruined In Gang Fight at Little Suamico

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — A motorcycle race for the benefit of retarded children turned into a 'rumble' that resulted in the beating of a priest and the ripping apart of two Little Suamico taverns Sunday.

The incidents occurred after gangs estimated as high as 100 cyclists and their girlfriends had participated in the motorcycle scramble races at the Sobieski Speedway in Sobieski Corners. The race is sponsored by a Green Bay club, The Red Knights, and is an annual event with proceeds used by retarded children agencies.

Authorities said today most of the cyclists involved were part of a Milwaukee gang known as 'The Outlaws.' About 40 or 50 members of the gang were known to have driven up from Milwaukee to participate in the races.

Few From Green Bay

Police said some of the cyclists involved were Green Bay youths, but no specific clubs were mentioned.

Gerald Lardinois, Green Bay, secretary of the Road Knights, expressed regret at the incidents. "They (the Milwaukee gang) are a rotten bunch of guys. I wish they could be banned from these races, but as it is now we can't stop them from coming."

Lardinois said the Milwaukee gang was invited by a Green Bay club. "But we (The Road Knights) do not take to that kind of riff-raff."

Four cyclists forced a car driven by a Marinette priest, the Rev. Francis Reinke, off the road between the Village of Howard and the Town of Suamico about 5 p.m. Sunday.

Father Reinke, pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Marinette, told police the cyclists forced him to pull off to the side of the road after one of the motorcycles hit the rear of his car and left the highway.

Authorities said the cyclists jerked the door of his car open, tore his jacket, hit him with

Appleton Man Gets Jail Term, Fine for Violations

Ronald R. Fox, 23, 1506 N. Racine St., pleaded guilty of reckless driving and driving after the revocation of his driver's license this morning in Branch 2 of Outagamie County Court.

Fox pleaded innocent to a third count of eluding traffic police brought by Appleton traffic police at 3:15 p.m. Sunday. Following Fox's plea of innocent, Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial on the third count for Aug. 24.

Keller fined Fox $100 and costs or 48 days in the county jail for reckless driving. For operating a vehicle after revocation of driver's license Fox was sentenced to 15 days in the county jail and fined $100 plus costs or 48 days in jail.

Keller ruled that the jail terms be served consecutively in the case of failure to pay the fines.

Candidates Spend $11,075 In Appleton's April Election

Buckley's Mayoral Campaign Costs $1,353; Mitchell's $4,826

Candidates in Appleton's April 5 citywide election spent $11,075 on their campaigns, according to expense statements filed with the city clerk's office.

Listing election expenses is required by law. In the mayor's race, the candidate receiving the most votes spent the least.

Mayor-elect George Buckley said he personally paid out $1,500 which went to the Committee for Buckley for Mayor. The committee, according to Secretary Raymond Witter, paid out $1,353.

Clarence Mitchell, defeated in his bid for re-election, said in his personal statement he received $1,025 and spent $975.

The Mitchell for Mayor Committee received $2,725 and spent $2,718, according to E. V. Krueger, chairman.

And another group—the Citizens Action Committee, received and paid out $1,133 to promote Mitchell's candidacy.

In the race for city attorney, David Geenen had personal expenses totaling $188.41 while the Citizens for Geenen Committee spent $778.77. The unsuccessful candidate, George Greisch, reported paying out $334.40 with $141 in outstanding expense.

No Donations

City Clerk Elden Broehm said he received no donations and spent $369.20. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings, who ran for the clerk's job, paid out $311 and has $263.50 additional electioneering expense.

Assessor John Pierre reported expenditures of $343.16.

Cornelius Crowe, unsuccessful candidate for assessor, spent $41 of his own money while the Crowe for Assessor Committee had $205 in expenses listed.

City Treasurer Ray Feuerstein, unopposed for re-election, said he had no expenses.

In the school board contest, Max Hensel and John Schneider

Trailer Park on Expressway Site Halts Action

Appleton officials said today they have received information that about one-third of the Romenesko Trailer Park property is in the proposed Tri-County Expressway right-of-way.

The town had requested the city's opinion.

Wolf Planners Call for Control on Road Signs

William Morris Notes 'Visual Clamor,' Believes Public Regulation Is Justified

"Signs have a tendency to get out of hand," according to a report by the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission. And when signs do get out of hand, the law of diminishing returns sets in — the more signs there are, the less attention individual signs receive," the report adds.

The report, written by William Morris, executive-director, notes that uncontrolled "signs breed more signs until the visual clamor becomes deafening."

Morris explains that public control is not justified merely because a public official or governmental unit thinks a private firm's way of doing business could be improved. "However," he continues, "when the public interest is affected, public control is justified."

Morris notes that sign installation involves the public safety, comfort, appearance and general welfare, the character of neighborhoods and property values.

Safety requirements are met if signs are erected in such a manner that they don't fall down, impede visibility in a manner hazardous to automotive or pedestrian traffic, or confuse or blind motorists with their lighting, the report says.

Excessive signs adversely affect the aesthetic, property and economic values of an area, Morris adds.

He notes that proper ordinances and controls restrict the construction and use of signs to coincide with the nature of the neighborhood.

Must be Balance "There must be a balance between no signs allowed and too many signs," Morris said. "Neither will achieve a worthwhile purpose. This balance is generally achieved by establishing maximum sign areas and heights, and minimum setback distances from the public thoroughfares and minimum distances between the signs."

Morris said that balance is also achieved by limiting the use of certain types of signs along highways to businesses that have the greatest need to advertise. "Proper sign control is a positive step towards making your community a better place to live," he said.

18 Colleges Participate

'War on Poverty' Meeting at Lawrence

Full utilization of the nation's youth in America's war on poverty will occupy the attention of a select group of Midwestern college students and faculty members at the pilot workshop on the Lawrence University campus Friday through Sunday.

Participants, from 18 colleges and universities in Minnesota, Indiana and Wisconsin, will be helped in their investigation by a number of young persons already experienced in serving the underprivileged, particularly in New York City.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, in his role as coordinator of the U.S. Youth Opportunity Campaign, aimed at eliminating the school dropout problem and providing summer employment for young people, has personally asked the Lawrence workshop to pay particular attention to the cause and effect relationship between education and poverty.

From Planning Conference The workshop has been developed from a planning conference held earlier this year at Wingspread, conference center of The Johnson Foundation, which is cooperating with Lawrence University in the project.

Dr. Marshall B. Hulbert, university vice president and workshop coordinator, said that planners hope "he session will permit participants to take back to their respective campuses: —1. A deeper understanding of poverty as it exists in the United States; Information on the opportunities for student service in anti-poverty projects during vacation periods; and

—3. The possibilities for employment, after graduation, in community programs aimed at alleviating poverty.

Attending Workshop Humphrey also encouraged workshop planners to "examine effective means . . . by which all our school and other recreational facilities are made available throughout the summer for a maximum number of hours each day."

On hand at the workshop will be Richard Boone, executive director of the Citizen's Crusade Against Poverty, Washington, D.C. Representatives of the governmental program, Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA), and the National Student Association will also be present.

The workshop will get underway at 7:30 p.m. Friday. The evening's program includes a film and a panel discussion. First of four general sessions will start at 9 a.m. Saturday. Others will be at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday and at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. Each to be followed by small group discussions.

A social hour is planned after the Saturday night session. The program will close at 3:15 p.m. Sunday.

Planning Group OKs Apartment Zoning for 49 Southeast Lots

Forty-nine lots in the 13th Ward on Appleton's southeast side were recommended for rezoning today from single occupancy to double and multiple family.

The action of the city plan commission was unanimous, but Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) did not appear satisfied with the decision.

"Let's see what happens when this gets to the council," Thompson commented.

The rezoning request was by Henry Hendricks, a local developer, who intends to construct an apartment complex.

Three residents in the area indicated they did not oppose two-family zoning but did question this particular MO multiple category which was also approved for several lots.

The MO zoning category, which says a minimum of 1,000 square feet of lot area is required for a dwelling that can be four stories or 50 feet in height, was questioned by Hendricks, some of the residents and Thompson.

Several commission members represented an ideal buffer for the residential areas.

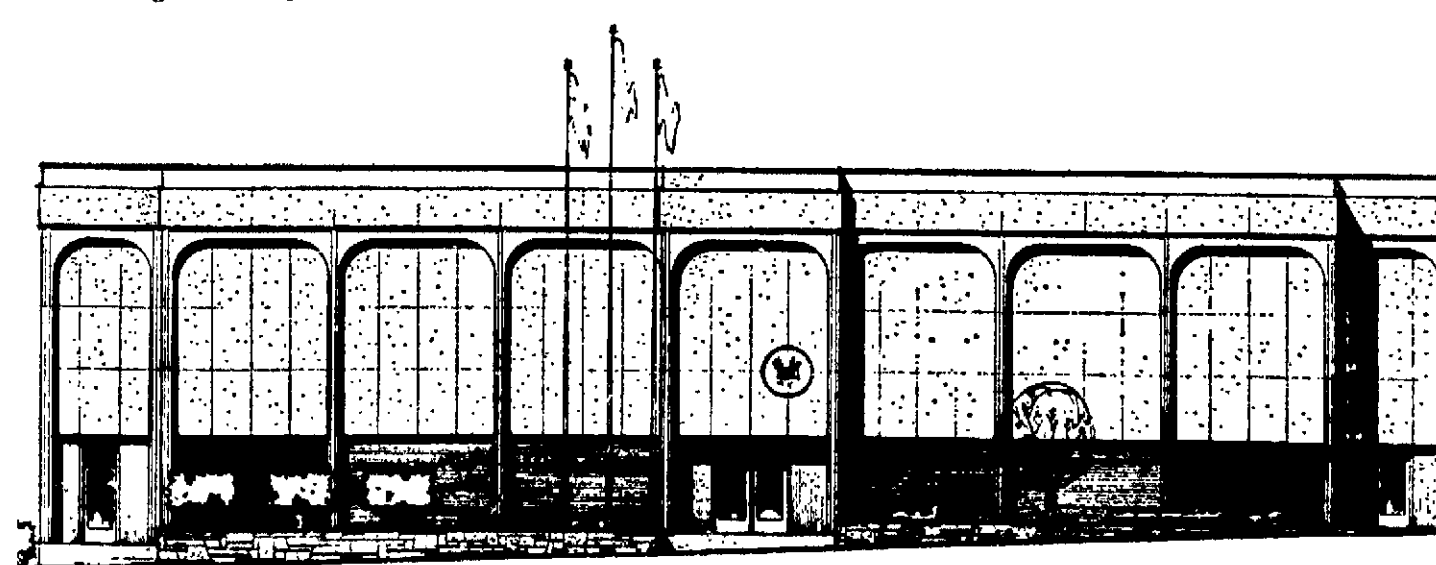

Thompson said it was unfortunate the developer and nearby

Mayor-Elect George Buckley to Open With Full Schedule Tuesday Morning

George Buckley officially becomes mayor of Wisconsin's ninth largest city at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday.

He will be Appleton's first mayor in eight years, succeeding Clarence Mitchell.

The 50-year-old Buckley will have his work cut out for him this week with council meetings scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Announce Appointments Buckley, a former member of the Appleton Council, will announce committee appointments for the legislative year, along with giving the mayors' annual message Tuesday night.

Although he took his oath of office last week, Buckley does not officially become top man in the city government until one minute past midnight. He is Appleton's 41st mayor.

Since his election, Buckley has spent considerable time at city hall conferring with other elective officials and department heads.

Buckley will be in a position to make several key appointments, including the membership to the newly-created city recreation-park commission which will have seven, including three citizen members.

There is also a vacancy on the fire and police commission which has existed for several months and will be filled by the new mayor.

In taking over the reins of the city government here, Buckley has shattered precedent in some instances.

Exploded Myth He has completely exploded as myth the long-time saying here that you're not a native until you've lived in Appleton for 10 years.

Buckley came here from Chicago in 1960 and two years later was successful in his bid for a post on the city council. However, at the end of his first term he declined to seek reelection and sought the mayor's job instead, losing out in his first bid.

Mitchell served as mayor from 1958 to this week. He has not indicated what his future plans are at this time.

Robert Roemer Served Before Mitchell, Robert Roemer had served as Appleton's mayor from 1946 to 1958.

Prior to Roemer's arrival at city hall, the late John Goodland Jr. had been mayor for 26 years — 25 of them consecutive.

When Buckley addresses the council tomorrow night he is expected to outline his program for Appleton for the next two years.

Buckley told reporters today he would operate his office much like his predecessor as far as public information is concerned.

"I intend to make everything available to the news gathering media. After all, it is a matter of public record," Buckley said.

Council Committeemen He gave no indication as to the men he has selected for council committee chairmanships. However, there has been speculation some of the "old hands" will be asked to stay on.

Buckley takes over as mayor with what could be described as the city's most inexperienced council. There are 14 aldermen with less than four years service on the council.

There were four new aldermen elected to the council last week, and in the 1965 spring election six aldermen were elected.

Aldermen receive $1,200 for their parttime work.

Buckley will get $14,000 for the first year of his term and $15,000 in 1967.

Terms of the city attorney, clerk, treasurer and assessor begin May 1.

3-Hour Blaze Rips Through Norge Village

NEENAH — A short in the switch box at Norge Village, a coin-operated laundry at 315 First St., set off a blaze that caused extensive damage to the interior of the building Sunday evening.

Some 12 firemen fought the blaze for almost three hours before bringing it under control. Three off-duty firemen were called to the scene with the three trucks at 9:25 p.m.

Chief Ferd Diesterhaupt said the firefighters needed smoke masks when they entered the rear door of the circular structure, which was built about four years ago.

20 Machines Damaged The fire was confined to the inner circle of the structure. It started in the switch box and spread to the rafters in the ceiling. About 30 washing and drying machines were damaged and will have to be rewired, Chief Diesterhaupt said.

The machines were located in a circle encompassing the heating and ventilation plant where the fire started. Firemen had some difficulty reaching the source of the fire because it was behind piping and ventilation ducts, the chief said.

now a teacher at the Mequon seminary; Pastor Thierfelder, and the Rev. Theodore Sauer, Manitowish. Pastor Thierfelder formerly served churches in Kaukauna and Black Creek. (Post-Crescent Photo)

7 More Than April

Winnebago Draft in May Increases to 20

OSHKOSH — Some 60 young Winnebago County men are on the list of the Selective Service System — Local Board 79, and orders issued in a small office in the Oshkosh Post Office will send 20 of these men into the Army during May.

The quota established by the selective service headquarters in Madison is seven more than the April number requested by the state.

The number 60 represents the approximate number of men classified 1-A that will be sent to the Milwaukee Induction Center during April. The local board usually sends 2 to 3 times the amount of its quota for examination in order to meet their quota with ease, a board member said.

Of these 60 or so men the 20 oldest, in order, will be inducted, he explained.

The number to be classified and sent to Milwaukee is determined by the local board on the basis of the quota, the board member stated.

The national quota for May is 34,600, a substantial rise over April's 21,700 call.

By the end of the year, it is expected that 3 million men will be in the armed forces. This includes the 230,000 troops now in Viet Nam.

The Winnebago County board reports few appeals, or personal appearances in the last few months arising from objections to being classified 1-A.

The board also reports only two conscientious registered ob-

Seat on Menasha Council to be Taken by Holmes

MENASHA — The common council is expected to limit its actions to routine matters to night when it meets as a committee of the whole and Tuesday evening when it will wind up business for the current term.

The "sine die" session Tuesday is likely to be brief. Mayor John Klein will step down from the office he has held the past three terms when the session adjourns.

Then the council will immediately reconvene to begin the new term, with Kenneth Holmes taking the gavel from Klein and two new aldermen taking their seats and receiving their aldermanic badges from City Clerk Harry Kind.

Third Ward Ald. William Zeininger will give up his seat to Gerald A. Wagner, and Sixth Ward Ald. Louis Gammey will turn over his position to Robert F. Winarski.

Holmes can be expected to announce his appointments to standing committees for the coming year. These include public safety and streets and sanitation.

OSHKOSH — Election of a county board chairman will open the reorganization meeting of the Winnebago County Board at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday and will be followed by election of a vice chairman and members of the highway, welfare agriculture and education committees.

Chairman Joseph Drexler, Oshkosh, has been serving for 13 years as chairman and has been on the board for 31 years. Orrin King, Oshkosh, was named to his first term as vice chairman last spring.

The chairman and vice chairmen will be elected for two-year terms. Previously, they were elected for only a one-year term.

Appleton's Spring Cleaning Shifts Into High Gear Today

Appleton's annual spring cleaning program shifted into high gear today.

Street - sanitation division crews were out sweeping streets and picking up debris.

However, H. E. Broussard, division superintendent, says the city could have "big troubles" if residents start raking leaves into the streets.

"This is the time for the spring rains and anything in the curbs now would plug up the catch basins," Broussard warned.

Zuelke Building Broadcasting Site of WAPL

12th Floor Renovated For Adaptation to Transmission Studios

Radio stations WAPL-AM and FM have completed the move from their former quarters at 109 S. Appleton St., to new facilities on the 12th floor of the downtown Irving Zuelke building and are now operating from the new location, John J. Dixon, owner, announced today.

The move of the AM broadcast facilities and all offices was accomplished between the 6 p.m. sign-off Thursday, and 6 a.m. sign-on Friday morning, Dixon said, including all necessary wiring. Staff members worked around the clock to insure hitting the normal sign-on moment.

The FM station, at 105.7 on the megacycle band, resumed normal broadcasting at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, the intervening day having been spent moving the intricate FM automated broadcast equipment.

On Top Floor The new WAPL quarters occupy the northeast third of the top floor of the building, giving rise to the two stations' new identifying line, "broadcasting top sound from the top of the town."

Three studios were constructed on the top floor, utilizing most recent techniques in sound control. The FM ceilings are acoustically, and the room layout uses wall angles to provide sound locks. The adjoining AM broadcast studio is visible from the central corridor by picture windows. An adjacent production studio also opens to a record library with custom-designed storage for thousands of recordings transcriptions and tapes.

Reception Area The WAPL suite includes reception area adjacent to the penthouse elevator from the Zuelke building's tenth floor, business and sales office, newsroom, announcers' quarters, copy and traffic department and private offices for station executives.

The WAPL personnel roster includes, in addition to Dixon, Eugene Steinhorst, commercial manager; Peggy Jacobi, FM program director; Bill Day, news and AM program director; Mary Ellen Ducklow, FM station director; W. Kellogg Har-kins, office manager; Mrs. Nancy Kulick, bookkeeping and receptionist; Bob Boisen, FM chief announcer; Don Meyers, chief AM announcer; Mike Lee, announcing staff; Gerald Lued-ke and Thomas Daily, sales representatives; Greg Schneider, chief engineer; Wes Koefler, FM staff; John P. Dixon, music director, and Arthur Hoolihan, reporter. Additional staff assignments will be announced shortly.

Profits Taken In Some Metals

Trading Is Active As Coppers Decline After Big Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Profits were taken in coppers, airlines and some other recent big gainers as the stock market worked irregularly lower early this afternoon. Trading was active.

Coppers declined following a big advance last week on news of the boost in the export price for copper by Chile. Weekend articles and current comment mentioned that the higher copper prices would benefit competing materials.

The losses of copper stocks were sharp. A number of airlines, which have had big gains, also were slashed.

The market was generally higher in active trading at the opening but weakness showed progressively. Motors, oils and selected rails resisted the downturn.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon as off 7 at 349.8 with industrials off 1.8, rails off .2 and utilities off .1. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .507 at 942.70.

Calumet & Hecla and Roan Selection Trust could not be traded because of accumulations of orders.

Prices were generally higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

and John Meyer, 2003 N. Mason St., all of Appleton. He refused his privilege of striking names from the jury list stating, "I don't have an attorney, I don't see how I can." A court clerk was then ordered by VanSusteren to strike four names from the list of 20. Four other names were deleted by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer.

Cornelius, formerly of West De Pere, also declined cross-examination of witnesses called this morning. He has refused the services of three court-appointed attorneys.

First witness called by Schaefer was Linn Summers, 24, route 2, West De Pere, who testified he was the first one to notice the church fire as he drove home from work about 3:20 a.m. Oct. 31.

Summers said the flames appeared to be coming out the front of the church from the inside. He told the nearly packed courtroom that he later noticed fires at nearby barns owned by Louis Peterson and George Verkuilen.

Priest Testifies

The second state's witness was the Rev. Adrian C. Traeger, a priest at Immaculate Conception Church, who said he and a fireman found that the newly construct church convent had been entered. He told of finding broken glass and blood spots in "at least 20 places" throughout the building.

Verkuilen, the third witness heard this morning, said his barn was about 500 feet north of the church. He said he had about 1,100 bales of hay in the barn which was destroyed.

Schaefer, in his opening remarks to the jury, said he intends to call as witnesses experts from the state crime laboratory who examined evidence found at the scene of the fires.

He said he would also offer as evidence a written statement by Cornelius to Outagamie County authorities following the Milwaukee youth's arrest by Under Sheriff Norbert Marx hours after the fires.

Fourth person to testify was Peterson, owner of the second barn, who told of discovering the fire at his farm. He lost some livestock in the blaze, he said.

Frank M. Charlesworth Jr., 535 W. Capitol Drive, Outagamie County surveyor, the fifth and final morning witness, displayed two scaled maps he prepared of the area around the church and two barns. Schaefer had the maps admitted as evidence.

home owners, who wanted to do so, could not arrive at a cooperative agreement because of the zoning classification.

He was told the purpose of the MO classification of apartment construction was to prevent density which leads to tenement-type apartment developments, and would also require the developer to have more yard area with landscaping and "green spots."

Deed Restrictions

Commission members said there was nothing to preclude Hendricks and the property owners from entering into deed restrictions. However, they emphasized the city of Appleton did not enforce deed restrictions — that they were strictly a civil matter between the property owners.

Lloyd Doerfler, a commission member, said he thought the apartment construction category was "ideal for that area," referring to the tract north of Newberry Street between Joseph and Matthias Streets.

"The people should be thankful the area is not industrial," Doerfler said.

It was recalled the site at one time was offered for sale to the city as a location for a future municipal incinerator plant.

Koufax Hurls Six Innings as Los Angeles Trips Cubs, 5-0

Giants Topple Houston, 3-1, For Fifth Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sandy Koufax has only one problem: He's in California, but his arm's still in Florida.

Making his second start at Los Angeles Sunday, Koufax struggled through six shutout innings in the Dodgers' 5-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs and then admitted that his arm still was at the Florida exhibition stage of the season.

"Right now I'm about that stage in spring training where we would just be beginning to play games," said the Dodger Dandy, who held out for 32 days of the exhibition season. "Normally I would be trying for three innings at this stage."

But Koufax, who received the Cy Young Award before the game for being baseball's best pitcher last year, indicated he was satisfied with his progress. "My intention was to go nine innings," he said, "and I'd be dumb enough to try it if they let me. I thought I had pretty good stuff at times. At least I could throw this time."

Didn't Survive
Last time was his first start, against Houston, and the $130,000 pitcher didn't survive the fourth innings. Against the Cubs he seemed to have difficulty getting loose at the start of each inning but kept five hits scattered while striking out six and allowing one walk.

After the sixth inning, Dodger Manager Walt Alton lifted his tiring ace and Bob Miller finished up with three innings of one-hit pitching while Koufax went to the dressing room and began to soak his arthritic left elbow in ice.

Elsewhere, the San Francisco Giants topped Houston, 3-1, for their fifth win.

Lakers Defeat Celtics in Overtime

By C. C. MCGILLICUDDY
BOSTON (AP) — Coach Fred Schaus has changed his thinking greedy and want the second. The second game of the best-of-seven series will be played at Boston Tuesday night before the Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association's championship final series.

"Being realistic, I'd have been content to win one of the two games played here," Schaus said after the Lakers game Sunday. "I merely means that Boston what you say, you can't get it Sunday at Boston Garden, over-

Floyd Robinson Gets 3 Hits In Rain-Delayed Contest

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago three singles and walked only one. The second game of the doubleheader was called because of rain.

Floyd Robinson provided all the punch Buzhardt needed, without going into extra innings. Robby whacked out three hits, scored three runs and connected for his first homer of the season.

The Sox, who won two of their first three games by one run in extra innings, rode the three-hit shutout pitching of Johnny Buzhardt to a 5-0 victory over Kansas City Sunday.

The game was delayed for nearly two hours because of rain but it didn't bother the veteran Buzhardt who scattered

Tiant Pitches 6-0 Triumph Over Red Sox

Senators Bring Detroit's Victory Streak to End, 10-4

By MURRAY CHASS
Luis Tiant didn't eat any potatoes this winter, so now he's in the gravy and the opposition's in the soup.

Tiant had the Boston Red Sox eating out of his hand Sunday, scattering seven hits as Cleveland won 6-0 and remained the only unbeaten team in the majors.

The Cuban right-hander thus became the first pitcher to post a shutout in the American League this season and exhibited signs that he is ready to return to his 1964 rookie form after a disappointing season last year.

The difference in Tiant apparently stems from his ability to become a hungry pitcher instead of a fat one during the off-season.

Indians' Manager Birdie Tebbetts took one look at Tiant when he reported to camp this spring and exclaimed, "Holy smokes! How about that?"

Size 32 Waist
Tiant weighed 181 pounds, 20 less than last year, and ordered pants with a size 32 waist instead of the 36 he wore in 1965. "I feel good, very good," the 25-year-old Tiant told everyone at camp. "I throw two, maybe three times a week in Mexico City, but mostly run and eat. No work at regular job, but work all the time on getting in good condition. I think I pitch better because I lose all weight."

Champions Tourney Extended

Palmer, Brewer Vie in Playoff

By BOB MYERS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — There's one thing about golfer Gary Brewer. He doesn't pick on any soft touches in a playoff.

Brewer's opponent in an 18-hole playoff today was a fellow named Arnold Palmer, with whom he tied after the regular season 72 holes Sunday in the $100,000 Tournament of Champions.

One week ago the 34-year-old Gay, from Louisville, Ky., by way of Dallas, Tex., merely faced Jack Nicklaus and Tommy Jacobs at 18 holes after they deadlocked in the famed Masters at Augusta, Ga.

Nicklaus, of course, won with two-under par 70. Jacobs had 72 and Gay 78.

Met Once Before
Palmer and Brewer met once before under the same conditions and Arnie won in a sudden death test in the West Palm Beach Open in 1959.

With $20,000 at stake for the winner and $12,000 to the runner-up, this was the first playoff in the 14-year history of the tournament here.

Brewer, undisputed leader in the middle rounds, went into noon

Sunday's final 18 holes leading, time on the 17th hole, again with Palmer by five strokes and Bill Casper by six.

Palmer, with an eagle three on the fifth hole, cut the margin by three strokes in five holes and going into the final nine with only one shot back of Brewer. Casper eventually faded to 70 and 285, which was worth $8,000.

Caught Up On 13th
Palmer finally caught Gay on the 13th hole with a birdie three and went ahead for the first

Nicklaus, who never recovered from his opening round 76, had a 72 for 288 and a tie with Australia's Bruce Crampton and his 74.

Dave Marr, the PGA champion, and former PGA titleholder Bobby Nichols tied at 289 with Frank Beard.

Orioles Set 1-Day Club Ticket Mark With 21,205 Sales

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles sold 21,205 tickets at the Memorial Stadium box office Sunday, a one-day club record, prior to the game against the New York Yankees. The total attendance for the game was 27,802, increasing the death test in the West Palm Beach series of the season to 75,554.

The late rush for tickets Sunday, with the temperature in the 60s, created long lines which weren't cleared up until the second inning. Under city law, the box office can't be opened until noon.

Miss Finneran Named Meet's Top Swimmer

Captures Pair of Titles, Says She Won't Retire

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Sharon Finneran, 20-year-old stalwart of Santa Clara Club's women's AAU indoor championships, says she has no intention of retiring — even though she is already above the average age for female swimmers.

Sharon, named the outstanding performer in the women's AAU indoor meet which ended Sunday, said she intends to stay active at least until after the 1968 Olympics.

But another star of the 1966 meet, 17-year-old Martha Randall of Philadelphia's Vesper Boat Club, said she'll retire after the summer's outdoor championships.

"I enjoy swimming and as long as I enjoy it I want to continue," said Miss Finneran, who won two individual titles, including the 1,650-yard freestyle Sunday in American and meet record-breaking time of 18 10.9.

"I think I'll give it up after this summer's meet," said Miss Randall, who claimed an American record in the 100-yard freestyle (53.6) and tied the American mark in the 200-yard freestyle (1 56.0).

Going to College
"I'd like to continue, but I'm tired of having to work so hard," Martha said. "Besides, I'll be going to college next year and I don't think I'd be able to get into training."

Miss Randall, whose 20 points — one more than Miss Finneran earned — gave her the individual scoring medal, plans to attend Mary Mount College in Tarrytown, N.Y.

Miss Finneran, a sophomore at Southern California, said college life cuts down on the time she has for swimming but doesn't pose an insurmountable obstacle.

Miss Finneran says she believes her age is an advantage rather than a drawback.

"I've got the benefit of several years of national and international competition in my favor," she said, "and I think Dawn Fraser has proved that you're not a teen-ager any more."

Besides the record established by Miss Finneran and Miss Randall, four other American marks were set in Sunday's wind-up.

Santa Clara's 400-yard freestyle relay team raced to a record 3:38.5 to clip Vesper in the final event to clinch the team championship.

Earlier, Cynthia Govett of Detroit's Motor City Swim Club, pushed hard by 14-year-old Katie Ball of Jacksonville, Fla., won the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:25.6.

Judy Humbarger of Miami, Fla., won the 200-yard backstroke in 2:11.8 and Elaine Tanner of Vancouver, B.C., won the 100-yard butterfly in 58.7.

The 5-foot-1 Canadian, one of the smallest girls in the tournament, won the 100-yard backstroke Friday in a record 1:00.7.

Philadelphia Center Fielder Jackie Brandt seems to have trouble following the advice painted on the sign on the outfield wall as he chases the ball (left) hit off the scoreboard for a double by Cincinnati's Don Pavletich in the third inning of Sunday's game in Philadelphia.

Pete Rose scored on the play from first base, but the Phils won on a homer by Richie Allen. 3-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Phillies Finally Snap Jinx, Defeat Nuxhall

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "It's about time," said Gene Mauch. "We've knocked him around a few times, but never really hard enough."

The Philadelphia Phillies manager was talking about his team's long-time jinx, Cincinnati left-hander Joe Nuxhall.

"I don't know why we haven't been beating him. He hasn't always been over-powering. Maybe it's because we haven't always done our best against left-handers."

The Phillies did it Sunday, though, beating Nuxhall and the Reds 3-1 behind the shaky pitching of their own lefty, Chris Short.

It was the first time Nuxhall has lost to the Phils in Connie Mack Stadium since May 31, 1958, and it ended a string of seven straight triumphs. The Phils last beat him in Cincinnati April 30, 1964.

Even in losing he was strong, giving up only four hits before departing for a pinch hitter in the sixth. The chief blow was Rich Allen's two-run, two-out homer in the first.

Allen's Homer
Allen also scored the Phils' third run. He opened the fourth with a walk, went around on a sacrifice and scored on Bob Uecker's single.

Mauch, with a thin smile on his face, said he is happy with Allen's hitting and fielding.

Allen agreed — "I feel better about playing this year. I'm more relaxed at third."

Babe Ruth Team To be Formed At Sherwood

SHERWOOD — A Babe Ruth baseball team will be organized here this year if there is enough interest and a coach can be found.

Parents and boys interested in playing are asked to attend a meeting 7:30 p.m. today in Harrison School.

Boys must be between 13 and 16 years of age to be eligible. They must reach their 16th birthday before August 1. The team will be sponsored by the Harrison Athletic Club.

Last year boys eight to 17 played on the team. In order to better organize, the club has decided to separate them in two groups. The younger group will be coached by Kenneth Kress and Donald Sponholtz. Registration dates will be announced.

Nelson Edges Jim Hurtubise

Captures USAC's 150-Mile Chase At Langhorne

LANGHORNE, Pa. (AP) — Norm Nelson said before the race that Jim Hurtubise was the one to beat. It turned out he was right.

Nelson, 43, of Racine, Wis., captured the U.S. Auto Club's 150-mile National Championship Classic at Langhorne Speedway Sunday — but he had to set a record to wind up ahead of Hurtubise, the runner-up.

Nelson, the USAC's defending late-model stock car champion, whipped around the mile-long, asphalt track in one hour, 27 minutes and 2.28 seconds in his 1966 Plymouth, an average of 103.403 miles an hour. Hurtubise set the old mark of 89.783 on a dirt course.

Hurtubise, of North Tonawanda, N.Y., led from the start until he was forced to make an unexpected pit stop for a tire change on the 90th lap. He finished one second behind after a spectacular charge in his 1966 Plymouth near the end in which he made up almost 1 1/2 laps.

Nelson relinquished the lead to Hurtubise at the beginning, but took the lead for keeps on the 136th lap.

Sal Tovella of Addison, Ill., driving a 1965 Plymouth, was third. Don White of Keokuk, Iowa, in a 1966 Dodge, was fourth, and Billy Foster of Vancouver, B.C., in a 1965 Dodge, was fifth.

Congress Wonders Whether LBJ Will Seek Tax Increase

Full Session Resumes After Easter Recess

By EDMOND LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress resumes full activity today, still wondering whether it will have to face soon a request from President Johnson for an income tax increase.

Some administration supporters have suggested the decision whether to ask for a tax boost, to fight inflation and help finance the Viet Nam fighting, might be made late in April.

By then, reliable figures on the current income tax yield should be in, now that the deadline for filing has passed, and the closely watched cost of living statistics may give a hint whether price increases are leveling off.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk goes before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today to outline the administration's $3.4-billion foreign aid request.

Little Business
But there is not much immediate business before Congress as the House ends its Easter holiday. The Senate has been back since last Wednesday.

Committees will be busy in the House with President Johnson's proposals for expansion of the unemployment compensation system and in the Senate with appropriations.

The House Ways and Means Committee is about to decide how far along to go with the administration's proposals for covering millions more workers with unemployment insurance and extending the payments.

The guessing is that it will send to the House legislation with some increases, but substantially short of the Johnson request. The House is scheduled to debate Wednesday Johnson's proposal to transfer the Community Relations Service, which attempts to conciliate disputes involving civil rights, from the Commerce to the Justice Department. The Senate, in effect, already has approved the transfer.

Convicted in Texas

Professor Faces New Drug Charge

MILLBROOK, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Timothy Leary, dismissed by Harvard University after experimenting with hallucinatory drugs — and convicted last month in Texas for transporting marijuana — faces a new narcotics charge.

A raiding party entered Leary's rented estate Sunday and seized what Dutchess County Dist. Atty. John R. Heilman called "a suspected quantity of marijuana."

Charged along with Leary with possession of narcotics were Stewart F. Swain, 46, Blue Jay, Calif., his wife, Nancy, 36, and Barry Kaplan, 20, New York City.

Pleaded Innocent

The four pleaded innocent before County Judge Raymond Baratta in Poughkeepsie and were released on bail pending a hearing Tuesday.

Leary, 46, free on bail pending appeal of a 30-year prison term stemming from a federal narcotics conviction at Laredo, Tex., said he was "outraged at this invasion of my home."

Leary said he was unaware of the presence of narcotics in the sprawling 64-room mansion he leased in 1963 in the name of the Castalia Foundation with himself as director.

The marijuana was said to have been found in an upstairs bedroom. Authorities said Leary was arrested since he was in possession of the house.

People Lying About
Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan, who led the raiding party with Heilman, said: "They (about 30 men and women) were lying around on mattresses on the floor, and some were playing music with guitars."

Leary, who describes himself as a Hindu, said the foundation was devoted to "scientific and religious research." He said the persons at the 85-year-old estate over the weekend were there to help plan a summer camp that the foundation hopes to conduct on consciousness — expanding techniques.

Leary, an experimenter with such drugs as LSD, and a collaborator, Richard Alpert, were released by Harvard three years ago for assertedly using students in drug experiments.

New York Papers to Publish on Time Or Not at All, Official Tells Unions

NEW YORK (AP) — Matt Meyer, president of the corporation formed by three merging New York City newspapers, says "we will either publish our two daily papers on April 25, or we will publish no papers at all."

The corporation, the World

Journal Tribune Inc., is to publish a morning paper, an afternoon paper and a Sunday paper. Meyer had this statement the Journal-American are to be Sunday for the 10 newspaper combined.

Following Meyer's statement, a spokesman for the new corporation explained that any delay in the start of the two papers would not delay the closing of the three newspapers now being published. "It means that the three separate corporations will be out of business on Sunday, the 24th," the spokesman said.

Spokesmen for the unions published next Monday, April 25, as the first edition of the new corporation. The other two papers in the merger — the Journal-American and the World-Telegram — are scheduled to appear on the 26th.

Von Braun Sees Diverse Uses For Satellites

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Space scientist Dr. Werner von Braun says satellites may be used to count noses as well as radiation and other more complicated things in the future.

Speaking to the League of Municipalities convention Sunday night, Von Braun said satellites also could be used to spot crop diseases and aid in water management.

He said the satellites would use man's habitations, recreational areas and industrial projects to determine population levels.

These space findings would be correlated with intensive earth-based samplings of selected areas.

Von Braun, director of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center here, told 600 Alabama municipal officials that the center definitely will meet commitments to provide the hardware to put man on the moon by the end of the decade.

May Day Slogans Friendly to West

MOSCOW (AP) — The West gets friendlier greetings and Red China is demoted in the Soviet Union's new May Day slogans, which are watched each year for signs of policy change.

Britain, France and the United States, formerly lumped together in a single slogan, got separate greetings this year. A new slogan was added urging the strengthening of peace and security in Europe.

The slogan on Red China was dropped from the top of those for Communist countries to number five. Last May Day's reference to "eternal, unbreakable friendship," with Peking was omitted.

Report on Sex Study Published

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — An 11-year, detailed study of the reactions of 694 men and women to sexual stimulation was published today.

The pathfinding research at Washington University in St. Louis appears destined to be as widely discussed as the Kinsey reports of a generation ago.

But, unlike the work of Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey who gathered his data mainly through interviews, the new book involves laboratory observations of humans undergoing sexual experiences.

The 365-page book, "Human Sexual Response," was prepared by Dr. William H. Masters, a gynecologist, and his assistant, Virginia Johnson, a psychologist.

Masters said the book was "written for the medical and behavioral professions and will not be advertised for sale outside those professions."

The book is published by Little Brown and Co. and will sell for $10 a copy.

Mass of Frozen Energy

Nuclear Particle Much Greater Than Proton

CHICAGO (AP) — The most massive nuclear particle yet known — nearly four times as massive as the proton — has been discovered by the Argonne National Laboratory scientists.

The team of physicists who made the discovery call the new particle N-asterisk-3245. They say N-asterisk-3245 is a mass of frozen energy — and the number "3245" stands for the amount of its energy, 3,245 million electron volts.

Its discoverers — Alan D. Krusch, John R. O'Fallon, Keith Ruddick and Steven Kormanov, all of the University of Michigan, and Lazarus G. Ratner of Argonne — published their discovery in Physical Review Letters, a scientific journal.

They said N-asterisk-3245 is a proton in an energized state. It belongs to a family of particles called nucleon resonances, they said.

Its life is only one-tenth thousandth of a millionth of a millionth of a second. But the discoverers said this is 10 times longer than other particles in the nucleon resonance series. Nucleons are either protons — the positively charged particles which are a major component of an atom's nucleus — or neutrons, the other major components of the nucleus, which have no electric charge.

So far as is known, nucleon resonances do not exist in nature — only in atom smashers.

The particle was discovered during six months of research with Argonne's zero gradient synchrotron, a 12.5-billion-electron-volt atom smasher.

Researchers bombarded a copper target with protons. That produced tiny particles called pi mesons. The pi mesons were bounced backwards into the oncoming stream of protons, and N-asterisk-3245 was a product of the collisions.

The new particle left a distinctive pattern on a fluorescent screen. The researchers determined that they had produced a new particle through analysis of the tracks it left.

Triple Death Cave Gas Is Unidentified

Rescuers, Guide Died Trying To Save Boy Scouts in Georgia

TRENTON, Ga. (AP) — Rescue squad officials see little hope of determining what kind of gas set off a cave explosion which resulted in three deaths and a 10-hour ordeal for three young Boy Scouts.

"Something happened, this we know," said Gene Glaze of Chattanooga, a leader in the rescue effort. "There was an explosion, but I'm at a loss to say what caused it because the only test equipment we had was for carbon monoxide."

Those tests showed a concentration of "pure carbon monoxide" in a 40-foot-deep pit of Howards Cave, where two rescuers died. The third victim, a guide for Explorers Post 79 of Atlanta, was trapped with the three Scouts on a ledge above and behind the fumes.

There was some speculation that the explosion may have been caused by gasoline fumes which had seeped into the cave. Glaze said he understood the cave had been posted several years ago because of "poisonous gas" within.

Rusty Mills, about 18, of Morrow, Ga., and Gernie Gilley, 19, of Trenton, died after rushing into the blanket of noxious gas in a rescue attempt shortly after the explosion about 12:30 p.m. Saturday. Phil Howell, 27, of Atlanta, the guide, apparently was also killed by the fumes.

The trapped Scouts, led to safety about midnight after the cool night air dispelled most of the carbon monoxide, were sent home after an overnight hospital stay. They are Chris Shannon, 14; Mike Strickland, 15; and Doug Flemming, 17, all of Atlanta.

Cuban Exile's Home Bombed on 'Pigs' Anniversary

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The second unexplained bombing of a Cuban exile's home in as many weeks exploded on the fifth anniversary of the Bay of Pigs invasion.

No one was injured Sunday when a bomb demolished one car, damaged another and shattered windows outside the home of the brother of a former Cuban president.

Antonio Prio Socarras, former Cuban finance minister, was asleep when the blast occurred. Prio, 61, is the brother of former Cuban President Carlos Prio Socarras, who was ousted in 1950 by Fulgencio Batista.

The first bombing was at the home of Armando Garcia, editor of the anti-Castro newspaper Patria. The Garcia home was damaged in the same manner — dynamite or a similar type explosive placed under a car.

Prio said he was not involved in any political activity that would prompt an attempt at his life.

Dodgers Full of Confidence

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three and a half weeks ago, when it looked as if Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale might sit out the season, an informal poll of the Los Angeles Dodgers revealed that only one of them believed the team could repeat as champion of the National League this year.

Now the world champions are bursting with confidence.

"The way we've been playing, I don't see how anyone can beat us," said catcher John Roseboro.

Late Sunday after the Dodgers had beaten Chicago for the third straight time, 5-0.

"It's amazing how much better hitting we have this year," he said, pointing to the fact that the Dodgers have clouted six homers and have scored 24 runs in their first six outings. "And we have two or three real good pitchers who haven't even got ten to pitch yet."

"We don't have to worry about who'll pitch tomorrow or the next day. The pitching staff is a lot deeper than it was last year."

Bob Burmeister Has 242 Game in Tavern Circuit

Joe Hinkens smacked a 632 series and Vin Schampers shared honors with a 231 game to lead the Fox Valley League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes Friday night.

Schampers finished as runner-up in series with a 605 total. Bob Burmeister powered a 242 game and Ken Uhlenbrauck had a 606 series to pace the Tavern League at Hahn's Lanes Friday night. Burmeister had a 564 series and Uhlenbrauck had a 236 line.

Frank and Pat's (571-321) won the Tavern League championship and Gil and Alma's finished second, three games behind.

Les Dietzen had a 572 series to top the Darby League at the Bowling Bar, Kaukauna, in recent action and the lone other honor score in the circuit was a 561 by Ralph Kalies.

Jim Moon hit a 554 series for the only honor count in the AAA Keglers League at Michels Bowl, Sherwood, recently.

Koufax Hurls 6 Innings as Dodgers Win

Greatly Relieved

Roseboro and the rest of the Dodgers were greatly relieved Sunday when Koufax pitched six shutout innings against the Cubs, allowing one walk and five hits and striking out six. The 1965 winner of 26 games and the Cy Young Award had been genuinely worried about soreness that developed in his left shoulder after he pitched six hitless innings in an exhibition against Cleveland here April 9.

"My shoulder doesn't hurt now—all the pain seems to have localized in my elbow," Koufax said late Sunday as he soaked his pitching arm in ice for half an hour. "But I can pitch with the elbow hurting; I did it all last year."

Manager Walter Alston said he thought Koufax had gotten through a good workout without hurting himself and Roseboro said he thought Sandy had good velocity on his fast ball and a much better curve than he has had all spring.

But Cub reaction to Koufax's performance was varied.

"I didn't have to worry about his fast ball—all he was throwing was slow curves, changeups and fork balls," said third baseman Ron Santo. "He looked to me as if he was in pain."

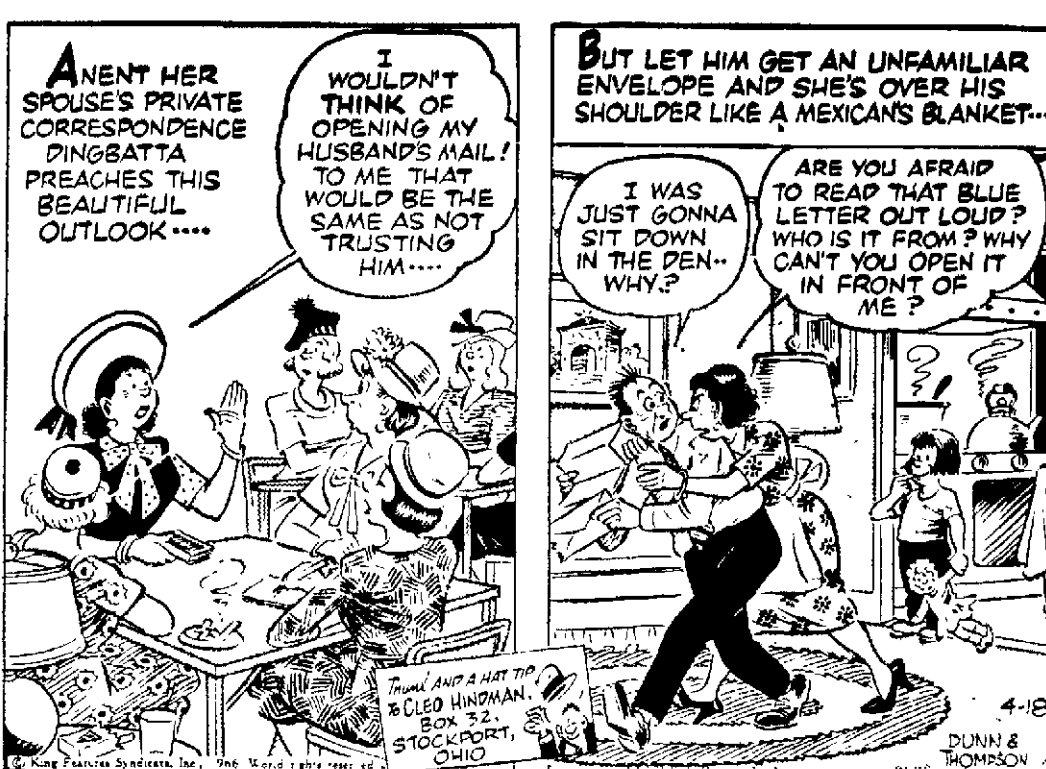

"But I think all of us (the Cubs) are disgusted. If we couldn't beat Koufax and Drysdale when they're not in shape, we're not going to beat them, this period."

Harvey Kuenn, who popped up as a pinchhitter for Chicago in the fifth inning, said:

"Sandy wasn't throwing the way he does in mid-season, but he wasn't lollypopping the ball, either. I thought he threw pretty good."

Afterward, Koufax said he is "excited" about the 1966 Dodgers.

"The most impressive thing," he said, "is the way (Jim) Lefebvre and (Wes) Parker have improved with the bat."

Strand Seeks Packer Berth

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Eli Strand will dress "quite eloquently" when he reports to the Packers next July.

The 250-pound guard, who likely will fight it out with Fuzzy Thurston for a regular berth next season, will never forget his arrival in Green Bay last summer.

Here's how the likeable free agent, who made the taxi squad last year, put it:

"For some reason I arrived on the plane wearing a pair of khaki pants and a sport shirt. The reasoning behind this was that I felt that if I arrived and went up to them and started to show everyone that I came to ask them their names. Before I play ball and not to model then could get a word out, one of them would make some sort of impression. At the airport I spotted some other rookies who were dressed quite eloquently. I was the only one who wasn't."

With Dan Grimm off to Atlanta, and Forrest Gregg doing back to back, Strand's chances of making the fast forty appear bright. Solid Strand looked good last year and was one of three taximen to go the full schedule.

Strand presently is attending his alma mater, Iowa State, to pick up a few credits toward his degree. He's playing handball and basketball to keep in condition.

What about 1966? Strand said: "I want to make the team and help them in some way. I know one thing, however, I can only look at a situation in one way, positively, and there is only one way I know how to play or do anything. And that is to give all that I have to give. That is what I plan to do this coming year."

Strand's long suit, not to mention the ability to block and go all out, was his tremendous attitude. As he explained, "I think all of the fellows sensed how much I wanted to learn and how badly I wanted to play."

Few free agents make it — Strand alone taximen, but Strand is looms as a prospect to break class with a 1.636 total.

The tournament ends May 15.

Detroit Takes 3-2 Edge in NHL Playoffs

Red Wings on Wind Up Series on Home Ice Tuesday

CHICAGO (AP) — Detroit's turnabout play against the Chicago Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup playoffs became complete Sunday when Norm Ullman joined the party in a 5-3 victory and a commanding position in the series.

The triumph gave Detroit a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven semifinals series which the Wings can wind up at home Tuesday night if not, the teams return to Chicago for game No. 7 Thursday with the winner advancing to the finals against Montreal.

No Injuries

"We should win it now unless we fall flat on our faces," said Detroit Coach Sid Abel. "We don't have any injuries. The boys are playing well and even Normie has found he can score against Chicago."

Throughout the regular National Hockey League season, the Hawks battered the Wings with a record of 11 victories, one defeat and two ties.

Equally unbelievable was Chicago's ability to hold high-scoring Ullman to no goals and only two assists in the 14 games. Even in the first four playoff games while the Wings were outscoring Chicago 14-5, Ullman was held without a goal.

But he more than made up for it Sunday with a pair of goals and an assist in what Abel called "the key game of the series."

Oriole Pitchers Are Off to Impressive Start—2.20 ERA

By GORDON BEARD

BALTIMORE (AP) — So far, Manager Hank Bauer of the Baltimore Orioles is sitting in the catbird seat.

While many baseball observers figured the Orioles enhanced their American League pennant chances by obtaining slugger Frank Robinson from Cincinnati in a trade, almost as many said Baltimore gave up too much pitching in exchange.

Bauer disagreed with those who contended the loss of starter Milt Pappas, a consistent winner for Baltimore since 1958, would seriously hamper the new staff.

"I had the best pitching in the league last year," Bauer said. "I can't see where the loss of the one player should be such a detriment."

So far, so true. The Baltimore version of a murderers' row, featuring the Robinson boys — Frank and Brooks — has been in the spotlight in the first five games. But suddenly, the fans are beginning to realize the pitchers have more than held their own.

Only 12 Earned Runs

The Baltimore hurlers have posted a 2.20 earned run average, allowing only 12 earned runs, as the Orioles broke from the gate with a 4-1 record.

Self-Imposed Penalty Costs Kathy Whitworth

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Tall Carol Mann had decided after three-putting the 17th hole that she would rededicate herself and "stick in there better in the next tournament."

"Yes, you did," said Kathy Whitworth. "I took a two-stroke penalty on that hole. You're the winner."

Improving Lie

Miss Whitworth took six strokes at the last hole while Miss Mann had a par 4. It appeared Miss Whitworth had won by a stroke. But Kathy had assessed herself a two-stroke penalty on the 18th hole for improving her lie in a rough.

The Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) allows players to improve their lies in the fairway. But they must play the ball as it lies in the rough.

Miss Whitworth moved her ball at the 18th before she realized that she had driven just a couple of yards off the fairway.

Miss Whitworth said, "It was a tough way to lose, but I had no other choice than to call the penalty."

Miss Mann said, "I abandoned all hope of winning when three-putted the 17th, and I was just plodding along at 18, telling myself that I had to rededicate myself and promise to stick in there better in the next tournament."

Miss Whitworth ended up tied at 217 with Jo Ann Prentice for second. They earned $1,100. Sandra Haynie, the first day leader, was third with a 218 and collected $800. Betsy Cullen was fourth with a 219 and got $560. and Marilyn Smith was fourth at 220 and took $480.

Ruth Pennings swept the honors in the National Couples circuit at 12 Corners Lanes with marks of 215 and 516.

Lo Berg rolled a 195 game on the way to a 570 threesome to highlight action in the Fish Couples circuit at Hahn's Lanes.

Maynard Kunschke garnered men's laurels with a 604 trio. "Perk" Persons was close behind with a 601 series.

Other honor scores were: "Hod" Deltgen 574, Shirley Frank 531, Don Frank 228, Ilene Deltgen 205, Janet Ferron 193 and 514 and Ruth Schulze 195.

Ken Gauker, with a 590 series, and JoAnn Goettel, with a 534 finish, divided honors in the Lutheran Sundae League at Hahn's Lanes.

Aggie Fuhs' 204 game was the only other honor tally.

Bud Werner paced the season's final round of the Nut Couples League, at the 41 Bowl, with scores of 228 and 577. Joe Erickson fired a 568. Karen Schuelke paced the women, with

EDITOR'S NOTE — Clark munists They had built a vast network of tunnels, hidden helicopters but he already is serving his second tour in South Viet Nam. His outfit is awaiting word to go into its first major clash with "Charley," the Communist Viet Cong. The following article recounts the events of the first of five days that may mean life or death for young Richie.

er, listening and peering out into the darkness. It was just after midnight Monday. The bright moon silvered the rows of barbed wire stretched in front of him. Beyond the wire was torn and cratered earth and then the jagged silhouette of a jungled rubber plantation. It was in that plantation, a couple hundred yards away, where infantrymen of the 25th Division had fought their first bloody battles with the Viet Cong. The GI's now called that ground "Hell's Half Acre."

Viet Nam in February a year ago.

His widowed mother, 68, hadn't wanted him to go back. "And I didn't volunteer," he said. But here he was. His mother simply told him "Do the best job you can. Then come home, safe and well."

The day grew hotter. By 10 a.m. it was about 83°.

Richie collected his monthly pay — $165 for a Pfc and $65 for combat — and arranged for two money orders to be sent home.

The day wore on and by afternoon the slightest movement started sweat soaking through the men's T-shirts as the heat hit 95 degrees.

Richie and the three other men from the bunker sat under their bamboo trees and sweat.

They talked about how many days they had left in Viet Nam and when they would go home. They talked about dying and the upcoming operation.

Think of Dying
Richie said he didn't like to think about dying, but some how you can't help it. You don't think about being brave but you hope like hell that you act like a man that you don't disgrace yourself that you won't be ashamed.

Richie ate dinner at the mess tent — fried chicken, boiled potatoes, peas, biscuits and iced tea. Afterward was mail call. Richie got a letter from his mother. He read it twice.

About 8 p.m. the Artillery blasts picked up tempo, marking the departure of the Company's night patrol. Shells were fired ahead of the squad of men moving in darkness toward Viet Cong-held territory.

The blasts also marked the start of the first night watch. The cycle had been made. The outfit would go on its first day major operation against "Charley."

Richie was quiet. He finished off his shave with slaps of lotion and combed his short-cropped hair. Fresh and clean he looked like a college boy getting ready for a date. But his greenish eyes had a tenseness about them. His rusty red hair was streaked with gray.

Recent Gray Hair?
The gray had come in the last year, he said. "There wasn't a single gray hair when I came to

Viet Nam Turmoil Speeds Up Election Schedule, Rusk Says

Secretary Testifies Before
Foreign Relations Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk told senators today the result of political turmoil in Viet Nam has been to "speed up the time table" for elections in that troubled country.

Rusk, the first Cabinet officer to be questioned in public by senators since the drive for elections broke out in Viet Nam during congress's Easter recess, said he understood the election of a constitution-making assembly will be held in August.

"It has been apparent throughout these recent discussions that there is general agreement among all of the participants that they reject the Viet Cong and the efforts of Hanoi to impose a political solution upon the South by force," said Rusk. He added:

Solid Basis
"It is important of course that these political processes proceed on the basis of solidarity on the eventual aims with respect to South Viet Nam even though, as we ourselves learn, the construction of a basic constitutional arrangement is a complicated and difficult matter."

Rusk's testimony came after Barry Goldwater charged President Johnson is playing politics with the Vietnamese war by trying to keep it at "a low level" to save Democratic seats in next fall's congressional elections.

"We're not exerting our full air power against the enemy, and I don't think that is playing fair with the men who are being drafted and the men who are being sent over to Viet Nam," Johnson's 1964 GOP presidential opponent said in a copyright interview in U. S. News and World Report.

Goldwater's volley came as Congress returns full force to face the Vietnamese political storm that broke during the Easter recess and as Secretary of State Dean Rusk faced the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The big question: What now? In going before the Foreign Relations group, Rusk once again was facing the questions of a committee that has been a hotbed of congressional criticism of Johnson's Asian policies.

But chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he didn't think "there will be any fireworks."

Another senior Democrat, Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama expressed belief the committee could discuss the situation with Rusk — and with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Wednesday — "and not cause an explosion."

Committee Mood
The committee's mood, said Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., may depend on Rusk — "to the extent he is frank with us. There is no use kidding ourselves, we are in trouble. We can't correct a problem by ignoring it."

The reason for Rusk's and McNamara's appearances before the committee is to support the administration's foreign aid requests. The hearings are to be televised nationally.

Goldwater expressed doubt the United States was doing all it could to "insure the stability in Saigon."

"The new civil disturbances over there — especially the demonstrations — I've looked upon as Communist inspired. . . . If it keeps on as a continuing civil war, then I think we're in a very bad fix," Goldwater said.

Stable Government
The lack of a stable government in Saigon is one reason, Goldwater said, why the United States isn't making more progress in Viet Nam.

A second reason, he said, is

African Paper Says Rhodesia Still Getting Oil

More Being Moved Overland Than
Big Tankers Carry

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The British campaign to keep the tankers Manuela and Ioanna V from delivering oil to Rhodesia made big headlines, but the rebellious African colony is still getting more oil each month overland than either ship carried, a South African newspaper reported today.

Johannesburg's Rand Daily Mail said the flow of oil from South Africa to Rhodesia averages between 140,000 and 160,000 gallons daily — double the amount required under current rationing quotas.

The newspaper gave this report:

News Report
A survey last week showed that each day at least 45,000 gallons were shipped by trucks and 100,000 gallons by rail. An unidentified oil company official said oil firms favored the cheaper rail routes from Lourenco Marques, in Portuguese Mozambique.

Most of the truck hauling is now done by an unnamed American oil company and South African agents. The Portuguese are supplying about 10 per cent of the fuel shipped by rail.

The Greek tanker Manuela, carrying 15,000 tons of crude oil originally destined for Rhodesia, was reported Sunday heading for Rotterdam after five days in Durban, South Africa.

Boarding Party
The Manuela was turned away from the Mozambique port of Beira by a British naval boarding party April 10 under a U.N. Security Council resolution authorizing Britain to use force against tankers trying to put oil to Mozambique to evade the British oil embargo against Rhodesia.

A pipe line runs from Beira to the colony whose white minority rulers defied Britain and seized

Red China Withdraws Aid to Indonesians

TOKYO (AP) — Angered by the sacking of its embassy in Jakarta, Communist China told Indonesia's new government today it is terminating its economic assistance and withdrawing Chinese experts.

The Chinese action came three days after 2,000 Indonesians of Chinese descent sacked the Chinese Embassy in Jakarta. They were voicing their disapproval of Peking's hostile attitude toward Indonesia's anti-Communist regime.

Bomb Missile Sites at Fringe Area of Hanoi

Closest Raid To Capital of N. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force jets smashed two Soviet-built missile sites on the outskirts of Hanoi in the closest raid yet to the North Vietnamese capital and left two key bridges in ruins, U.S. spokesmen reported today.

Another group of Navy fighter-bombers set off a huge explosion at a suspected missile site 27 miles south of the coastal city of Vinh, 160 miles south of Hanoi, silenced seven nearby anti-aircraft batteries and sank a junk.

Led by target-marking F100 Super Sabre jets in clear afternoon skies, a pack of Air Force supersonic F105 Thunderchiefs began the raid around Hanoi Sunday by hurling 75-pound bombs at a bridge 33 miles south of the capital on the road to the chief port of Haiphong.

Span Wrecked
The span was put out of commission, a spokesman said.

The jets then moved closer to the capital blasting a missile site 15 miles south of the city and another 17 miles southwest with rockets and 20mm cannon fire. A huge explosion rocked one of the missile complexes, a pilot reported. The airman spotted rockets on the launching pads just before they roared in but only one missile was set up. It missed.

Three other flights of Thunderchiefs struck the main railroad bridge between Hanoi and Vinh with 750-pound bombs, leaving it completely "sagged, twisted and definitely unserviceable," a spokesman said. The bridge was hit last November but had been rebuilt, he said.

5 Planes Lost
The loss of five more U.S. planes in the past three days raised the number brought down in the 15-month-old air war against North Viet Nam to 210. But only two fliers were reported lost over the weekend.

An A1H Navy Skyraider was lost to conventional ground fire this afternoon three miles south of Tiger Island and just north of the 17th Parallel frontier. The

Soviet Firepower Demonstrated in Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Communist Cuba marked the fifth anniversary of its Bay of Pigs victory Sunday with a demonstration of fire power by Soviet warplanes and tanks.

While Cubans watched from shore and on television, MIG15 and MIG21 jets teamed up with T55 tanks to sink a small unmanned freighter in Havana harbor.

A television announcer drummed at the claim that the MIG21 could outperform any warplane the United States possesses.

86-Mile Pursuit

Flying Saucers Back, Police Give Chase

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — "We were close, closer than I ever want to be again," said a deputy sheriff who chased an unidentified flying object from Ohio into Pennsylvania.

Hundreds of persons in both states reported seeing the "brilliant and shiny" object early Sunday morning.

Police chief Gerald Buchert of Mantua, about eight miles north of Ravenna, said he took a picture of the object from his front yard but the Air Force told him not to release it.

Buchert said it looked like "two table saucers put together."

86-Mile Chase

Deputy Sheriff Dale Spaur said he and his partner, W. L. Neff, "were close" to the object in separate cars and chased it 86 miles for an hour and a half, from near Ravenna to Conway, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

Spaur said he clocked it at speeds up to 103 miles per hour. From the ground Spaur said it looked like the head of a flashlight, about 40 feet wide and 18 feet high.

Spaur said the lines of the object were very distinct. "Somebody had control over it," he said. "It wasn't just floating around. It can maneuver."

The deputy said the chase slowed down near Rochester, Pa., when the cars "got tangled up in a mess of bridges. But when I came out from under the bridge it came down and waited for us, just as though it knew these two cars were following it."

Paint Humming
"I know nobody's going to believe it, but it's true," he said.

Spaur said the only sound coming from the object was a steady, faint humming, like an electric transformer. Near Conway, Pa., Spaur said the object

History of Power Struggles

Viet Nam Buddhists, Military Widely Separated in Background

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Nam's top Buddhist leaders and the ruling military high command have two things in common. They are Vietnamese, and their average age is 38.

Otherwise, in their background education and viewpoint of the world they are completely different.

This largely explains why in the three years since the Buddhists and the military united to overthrow President Ngo Dinh Diem, the political history of Viet Nam has been a series of power struggles between the two groups.

Such a struggle is taking place now. If the Buddhists win this struggle and dominate the proposed National Assembly, then the history of Viet Nam in the next year may be vastly different from the last.

Common Enemy
The Buddhists and the military united against Diem as a common enemy. But there is no common enemy now.

"The Americans and the Communists must go," says Thich Quang Lien, 39, a Yale graduate, pacifist, and a ranking Buddhist leader.

"Who will gain victory in this war?" Quang Lien asks. "Who will suffer defeat?"

He answers, "Whatever happens, our people suffer."

Quang Lien, as general commissioner for education, culture and social affairs, is just one voice in the Buddhist hierarchy. But his pacifism and chronic anti-Americanism seem ironic in a man who greets fellow Yaleness with a big grin and the cry, "Bolla, bolla."

Other Buddhist leaders talk less about the American presence and the Viet Cong. They refer vaguely to the Viet Cong in terms of wayward members of the flock rather than the enemy.

There seems no doubt that the Buddhists want peace and want it soon. They see the war from the point of view of the peasants and the war refugees who flock to the pagodas for haven and guidance as the war widens.

It was from within the lower

GNP Rises Sharply in First Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gross national product, the value of all goods and services produced in the economy, rose sharply during the first quarter of this year, to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $714 billion, the Commerce Department reported today.

The jump was much larger than administration officials anticipated in January and could add new fuel to the continuing debate over the need for a tax increase as a hedge against inflation.

The $17-billion rise represented a 2.5 per cent gain over the fourth quarter of 1965, but the Commerce Department's Office of Business Economics said the figures are preliminary and incomplete and subject to revision next month.

President Johnson, in his budget submitted to Congress in January, forecast a gross national product of between $717 billion and $727 billion during 1966 but more recently government officials have talked of a gross national product totaling $730 billion to $735 billion this year.

Two Persons Killed In Waupaca Crash

Deaths Hike State Toll to 226;
County's First Traffic Fatalities

WAUPACA — Waupaca County's first traffic fatalities of the year were recorded Sunday when a resident of the Grand Army Home for Veterans, King, and a Milwaukee woman were killed in a head-on crash six miles west of Waupaca on State 54.

Dead are Alic A. Cyran, 68, of the veteran's home and Mrs. Gustave Rieger, 42, 2950 N. 59th St., Milwaukee. Gustave Rieger, 50, the dead woman's husband, their 12-year-old daughter, Heidi, and Leonard L. Stenson, 59, 604 N. Main St., Oshkosh, driver of the car Cyran was riding in, all were listed in serious condition at Waupaca Riverside Hospital.

Six Deaths
A total of four weekend highway deaths, another fatality early today and a death resulting from an April 14 accident raised the 1966 state highway death toll to 226 as compared to 236 one year ago.

William A. Weiss, 21, of Allenton, was killed Saturday night when the car in which he was riding struck a telephone pole north of St. Lawrence.

Seven-year-old Steve Adams was struck and killed by a car Saturday as he crossed a Rusk County road near his home near Ladysmith.

William C. Higgins, Jr., 28, of Woodstock, Ill., was killed today when his car struck a bridge abutment on Interstate 90 south of Janesville.

Charles Wanner, 83, of Almona, who was injured in an accident April 14 died Sunday. Authorities said his car ran off State 25, one mile south of Hillsdale, and struck a mailbox.

Passes Tractor

The Waupaca County crash occurred at approximately 10 a.m. Sunday. According to a witness, Rieger was traveling west, had just passed a farm tractor and was pulling back into his lane of traffic when he crashed head-on with the Stenson car which was traveling east.

Some $20 Million To be Returned to State Taxpayers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin citizens will get an estimated $20 million in refunds on their 1965 state income taxes, Tax Commissioner James R. Morgan says.

Morgan said Saturday that about $8 million in refunds has already been returned to taxpayers. He said state tax officials were keeping up with processing the returns regularly until last week when an avalanche of mail hit the department as the April 15 deadline approached.

With 700,000 returns burying the department in paper, workers were still opening mail bags by the weekend.

Strike at Cape For Wage Hike

Some Construction
Workers Honor Lines
At All Entrances

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Members of the International Union of Electrical Workers set up picket lines at all five entrances to this space center today, and early checks showed some construction workers were honoring them.

Except for some construction work on the Merritt Island moonport, the strike was not expected to affect activity here.

Most members of other industrial unions appeared to be ignoring the lines, which are the result of a wage dispute with United Technology Center (UTC).

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Air Force hoped to have figures on the number of absentee workers later in the day.

Local 1201

The strikers are members of Local 1201 of the Electricians Union, which has its headquarters at the Coyote, Calif., plant of UTC, a division of United Aircraft Corp.

The electricians here receive a pay of $3.93 an hour. They seek a 15-cent an hour raise, plus a 30-cent "field rate" for working at the cape.

For State Employees

Arizona Loyalty Oath Struck Down by Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down today an Arizona law requiring a loyalty oath of all state employees.

Justice William O. Douglas delivered the 5-4 decision. Justice Byron R. White wrote a dissenting opinion. Justices Tom C. Clark, John M. Harlan and Potter Stewart joined in White's opinion.

The court ruled on an appeal by Mrs. Barbara Elfbandt, a public school teacher of Tucson who refused to sign the oath. The law says public employees who refuse to sign must be taken off the payroll, although not discharged. Mrs. Elfbandt has taught for eight years without pay.

Free Speech
She contended the requirement denied her right of free association and free speech. She is a member of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers), but her attorney emphasized before the Supreme Court that the fact was not being argued in the case.

Vernon Elfbandt, husband of Mrs. Elfbandt, likewise refused to sign and has taught for eight years without pay. The attack on the state law was brought in her name only.

Estimates were made that if she won the case, the Elfbands would likely collect back pay of about $50,000. The former Spokane, Wash., couple have received financial aid from friends and supporters of their beliefs.

Threatened Freedom
Douglas said in his majority opinion the Arizona act "threatens the cherished freedom of association protected by the First Amendment."

Douglas, in his majority opinion, described Mrs. Elfbandt as a teacher and a Quaker who "decided she could not in good conscience take the oath, not knowing what it meant and not having any chance to get a hearing at which its precise scope and meaning could be determined."

Douglas described the oath requirement in this manner: "The oath reads in conventional fashion as follows: 'I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution and laws of the State of Arizona; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same, and defend them against all enemies, foreign and domestic, and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of the office of (name of office) according to the best of my ability, so help me God (or so I do affirm).'"

Stevens Point, Stout Grants Recommended

$1 Million for Each Would be Used for Building, Alteration

MADISON (AP) — Federal grants of $1 million each were recommended Friday for Stevens Point and Stout State universities.

The State Commission for Higher Education approved the allocation of another $2.5 million in federal funds for three other state universities and Marquette University.

The grants will be used to construct or remodel classroom and library facilities. They must be approved by the U.S. Office of Education.

Stout said its $1 million will be applied toward a $4.3 million science and industrial technology building. The building will house eight classrooms and 29 laboratories.

Learning Resource
Stevens Point earmarked its $1 million toward constructing a $3.2 million learning resource building that will embrace a library, audio-visual and student study facilities, a television studio and faculty offices.

The grants to Stevens Point and Stout were the maximum that can be provided in any one year. The other grants ranged from $200,000 to nearly $900,000.

La Crosse will get the largest of the other grants, with Platteville also receiving more than three-quarters of a million dollars. The third state university recommended for a grant is River Falls.

Applications by Superior State and Ripon were turned down this year.

La Crosse Funds

La Crosse is to receive $684,000 to build a $2.7 million library with room for 314,000 volumes and additional study and office space.

Platteville is to receive $797,790 toward a $3.8 million education and agriculture classroom building.

Platteville had requested the full $1 million allowed, but the remaining portion was unavailable after other allocations exhausted the $4.5 million total in federal funds targeted for Wisconsin.

River Falls will receive $624,000 toward a 46,000 square foot addition to its present library. The project will cost $1.9 million.

$200,580 to Marquette

Marquette was allocated $200,580 toward remodeling its science building. The total bill for the project is $747,000.

Ripon had asked $546,517 and Superior $617,082 for various projects, but Wisconsin's total was awarded on a project priority basis and no money was left over after approval of the first six requests.

The commission also approved state plans to allow Wisconsin colleges and universities to apply for additional federal assistance.

One program would provide $319,000 to improve undergraduate instruction through purchase of special equipment. Another would provide $35,000 to pay for educational television projects.

Kaukauna Physician to Insurance Board Post

Home Mutual Re-Elects All Officers For Another Term, 3 Directors Seated

Dr. John G. Russo, physician, instead Mutual board of directors surgeon, and medical director of Riverview Sanatorium, Kaukauna, has been named to the board of directors of Home Mutual Insurance Co., for a three-year term to succeed the late Charles Dostal.

Selection of Dr. Russo was announced today by Gordon A. Bubolz, president, who stated that the choice was made to conform with the company policy of having major professions and businesses represented on the board, serving as a broad cross-section of the economy in the six states in which Home Mutuals operates.

Dr. Russo received his medical training at Loyola University School of Medicine, Chicago. He has been at Riverview since July, 1946.

Diagnostic Radiologist
Dr. Russo also serves as a diagnostic radiologist of the Kaukauna Community Hospital and courtesy staff member of various area hospitals.

In his annual report to the policyholders, Bubolz said that while the insurance industry generally has been confronted with high underwriting losses, the experience of the two Appleton companies — Home Mutual and Homestead Mutual — was most favorable.

The premium volume, Bubolz said, increased 11.10 per cent from $6,514,000 in 1964, to $7,349,000 at the end of 1965. Assets increased $679,000, or 10.19 per cent. And a most favorable index of the year's operation was the surplus of Home Mutual which increased $240,000 or 20.47 per cent.

Homestead Mutual, the farm writing company of the Home Mutual group, reported assets of $1,580,944; reserve of $606,806; and policyholders' surplus of $974,138.

Premium Total
Premiums written of Homestead Mutual amounted to $1,145,755.

Wolf Planners Call for Control on Road Signs

William Morris Notes 'Visual Clamor,' Believes Public Regulation Is Justified

"Signs have a tendency to get out of hand," according to a report by the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission. And when signs do get out of hand, the law of diminishing returns sets in — the more signs there are, the less attention individual signs receive," the report adds.

The report, written by William Morris, executive-director, notes that uncontrolled "signs breed more signs until the visual clamor becomes deafening."

Morris explains that public control is not justified merely because a public official or governmental unit thinks a private firm's way of doing business could be improved. "However," he continues, "when the public interest is affected, public control is justified."

Morris notes that sign installation involves the public safety, comfort, appearance and general welfare, the character of neighborhoods and property values.

Safety requirements are met if signs are erected in such a manner that they don't fall down, impede visibility in a manner hazardous to automotive or pedestrian traffic, or confuse or blind motorists with their lighting, the report says.

Excessive signs adversely affect the aesthetic, property and economic values of an area, Morris adds.

He notes that proper ordinances and controls restrict the construction and use of signs to coincide with the nature of the neighborhood.

Must be Balance
"There must be a balance between no signs allowed and too many signs," Morris said. "Neither will achieve a worthwhile purpose. This balance is generally achieved by establishing maximum sign areas and heights, and minimum setback distances from the public thoroughfares and minimum distances between the signs."

Morris said that balance is also achieved by limiting the use of certain types of signs along highways to businesses that have the greatest need to advertise. "Proper sign control is a positive step towards making your community a better place to live," he said.

Urged to Seek Guidance

Married, Religious, Single Lives
Explained to Bear Creek Students

BEAR CREEK — Eighth grade pupils at St. Mary Grade School here heard explanations of the married, single and religious vocations at a panel discussion Friday.

George Randerson, a representative of the Serra Club, said that many times not enough thought is given to a religious vocation. He claimed that often it is the fault of the parents, who do not give enough guidance to their children.

Randerson told the children they should give as much consideration to a religious vocation as they do to marriage.

Seek Guidance
He urged the pupils to seek guidance regarding a religious vocation from their parents and from priests and nuns.

Brother Borromeo Pelky, the first person from the parish to join the brotherhood, explained the life of a brother.

He noted that brothers often teach at high schools or direct boys clubs. A brother lives a life of prayer and is guided by the vows of obedience, chastity and poverty, he added.

Sister Emmanuel of the Sisters of Charity, Green Bay, explained the life of a nun and some of the various types of work they do.

Assist Girls
She explained that the Sisters of Charity are concerned primarily with social services. Sister Emmanuel said the order assists delinquent girls in becoming better persons.

She explained that the girls referred to the order usually are the victims of unfortunate circumstances, often unwanted or unloved by their parents. Sister Emmanuel said the girls often come from homes where parental discipline is either too lax or too strict.

The girls who soon begin drifting away from their parents become bitter toward society, the nun explained, and feel

New School

Session Explaining Building Program
Scheduled May 9

WEYAUWEGA — An informational meeting has been scheduled by the board of education and its building committee to discuss a proposed new high school building with the district voters.

The two groups decided a new high school would best meet the future needs of the school program. The meeting has been set for May 9. Persons in the school district will be given the opportunity to ask questions after the building program has been explained.

Additions to the present buildings were considered, however, costs were close to that of a new high school and it was deemed economically advantageous to consider a new building.

Mail Brochure

Under the proposed plan, the present high school building would be used for the fifth grade through eighth.

A brochure will be mailed to voters the first week in May explaining the program. It will include questions and answers, approximate costs of the building program, and a sketch of the proposed high school.

After the informational meeting, a date will be set for voting on the building program.

Daverman and Associates, Grand Rapids, Mich., have been hired by the board, and have studied the area and presented several proposals and estimates.

Trading Is Active
As Coppers Decline
After Big Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Profits were taken in coppers, airlines and some other recent big gainers as the stock market worked irregularly lower early this afternoon. Trading was active.

Coppers declined following a big advance last week on news of the boost in the export price for copper by Chile. Weekend articles and current comment mentioned that the higher copper prices would benefit competing materials.

The losses of copper stocks were sharp. A number of airlines, which have had big gains, also were slashed.

The market was generally higher in active trading at the opening but weakness showed progressively. Motors, oils and selected rails resisted the downturn.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .7 at 349.8 with industrials off 1.8, rails off .2 and utilities off 1. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .507 at 942.70.

Calumet & Hecla and Roan Selection Trust could not be traded because of accumulations of orders.

Prices were generally higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

2 Fined for Topsy Driving Both Have Licenses Revoked for One Year Period

An Appleton man pleaded guilty and a Menasha man was found guilty this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on equal charges of operating a vehicle while intoxicated. Both men were fined $175 and costs or 70 days in the county jail.

Kenneth G. Hansen, 1831 S. Van Dyke St., Appleton, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol and was fined $175 and costs or 70 days in the county jail.

The charge was brought against Hansen by County traffic police Saturday. Judge Gustave J. Keller also ordered the revocation of Hansen's license for one year.

Lee Dexter Beattie, Silver Court, Gardener's Row, Menasha, was found guilty of operating a vehicle while intoxicated and was fined $175 and costs or 70 days in the county jail. Keller also ordered the revocation of Beattie's license for one year in the Outagamie County Court action.

The charge was brought against Beattie on December 18, 1965. At that time he pleaded innocent. Bond was posted at $250 with the trial set for today.

This morning Beattie told Keller he had lost his driver's license. The court ordered that the balance of the bond will be returned when Beattie submits the revoked license to authorities.

New Law Drops Attendance

AVS to End Courses for Under 18 Age Group

The Appleton School of Vocational and Adult Education (AVS) will discontinue courses for high school girls under 18 after this semester. Plans are also to end courses for boys of that age in the future.

Carl Bertram, AVS director who recommended the move, was backed by the board which voted Thursday not to offer courses in the future for girl students. Students are compelled by law to remain in school until 18. The previous limit was 16.

The board acted because of the prohibitive instruction costs for a limited number of students. Bertram said only two girls were taking course work this semester.

He said that since the age for compulsory school attendance was raised, the number of students attending courses at AVS has continually declined. Bertram said fewer students were dropping from the public school system.

William Spears, superintendent of schools, who backed Bertram's decision, told the board, "The public school system will make every effort to keep the students in the system."

Negro Literacy Project Fails To Win Support

Rights Groups Distrust Aims Of James Farmer

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A much-publicized literacy training program for adult ghetto Negroes has failed to win government approval in the war on poverty for more reasons than Adam Clayton Powell's opposition.

It seems increasingly clear that Sargent Shriver's Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) will not approve $900 million for the proposed new National Center for Community Action Education, Inc. That means the center, headed by civil rights activist James Farmer, is doomed.

The widely accepted explanation in Washington is a veto exercised by Rep. Powell, the rambunctious Harlem congressman who, as chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, attempts absolute domination of the poverty program.

Powell, who has no love for Farmer, has informed Shriver — and anyone else who will listen — that Farmer's project would wreck the poverty program by setting up an autonomous organization. Farmer complains that Shriver has just not sure Farmer's group, ell, never one to minimize his power, won't dispute that.

Yet, blaming such a thick-skinned politician as Adam Clayton Powell for the apparent demise of the project obscures the larger truth. In reality, Powell's opposition accounts for no more than 10 per cent of the center's problems. General experts, the problem is so problems afflicting both the civil rights movement and the war on poverty, constitute the other 90 per cent.

The story goes back to early

January when Farmer resigned as national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) to head the new center. At that time, Farmer got every national civil rights group to endorse the center as a step away from protest and toward self-improvement.

Then the civil rights groups took a second look. Before he left CORE, Farmer was being squeezed out. Moreover, CORE was beset internally by black nationalism, anti-Semitism, and a militant anti-war group concentrating not on civil rights but on opposing Viet Nam policy. In short, both Farmer and CORE were in danger of losing their base in the civil rights movement.

Farmer Flees
Other Negro leaders began to suspect that Farmer was fleeing CORE's sinking ship, and wanted to build the new center as a sturdier craft to ride in civil rights politics.

Gradually, and without any announcements, support for Farmer's project inside the civil rights movement faded away. Now plans are secretly being made for a separate, rival adult education project under the sponsorship of Dr. Martin Luther King.

With the politics of civil rights eclipsing the goal of literacy training, OEO is not about to approve any proposal. Understandably, government officials want the civil rights movement to submit one, unified proposal for adult education.

Moreover, Farmer's center could not hope to attract needed grants from private foundations unless the entire civil rights movement supported it. Unless House Education and Labor Committee, attempts absolute domination of the poverty program.

Details Obscure
Finally, OEO officials began to take a second look at the center. While Farmer had listened — that Farmer's project sought and initially received support from other civil rights politicians, details of the center's plans for ghetto education were not spelled out. OEO is just not sure Farmer's group could do the job. Here is enough reason for withholding approval of the grant.

Yet there are experts who believe that OEO was at fault in believing that any effective program of adult education should be launched with less than $1 million in federal money. According to these experts, the problem is so problems afflicting both the civil rights movement and the war on poverty, constitute the other 90 per cent.

New Labor Contracts May Push Prices Up

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The remarkably prolonged "all quiet" on the U.S. labor front is now being broken. Negotiated cash wage hikes during 1966's first quarter were the highest for any quarter in eight years.

The vital contribution that comparatively stable wages have been making to industry's profit margins and non-inflationary prosperity is in clear danger. The average cash wage increase in wages considered non-inflationary under the administration's guidelines.

What's more, the research agency declares that "virtually all the factors bearing on collective bargaining suggest the outlook is for continued large wage increases in contract settlements." Its analysis of almost another 100 contracts signed in the past couple of weeks reveals an even higher average level of raises than 9.1 cents.

Demands Bigger
Union demands are running much bigger than a year ago. A comparison of the first quarter of 1966 with the last quarter of 1965 shows "a widening gap" in the level of settlements.

Growing labor shortages in many areas and occupations "favor higher wage settlements." Union leaders are trying to recoup 1966's larger Social Security tax on employees as well as win pay increases in other ways. The extra Social Security tax will cost employers and employees alike as much as 15 cents an hour for the worker earning $6,600 a year in 1966.

Construction settlements will tilt the average wage boost higher in the months ahead, adds the BNA. Only a small number of construction contracts were signed in the first quarter. But in the second and third quarters, a substantial total of high-increase construction contracts are on schedule.

Fringe Benefits Too
This is only the cash wage side of the picture. Workers are winning major gains in fringe benefits as well. New or changed insurance plans appeared in 53 per cent of the settlements. New or changed vacation plans showed up in 41 per cent of the contracts. Additions or changes in holidays were in 38 per cent of the settlements.

As a final point, 9 per cent of the first-quarter contracts last year granted no wage hikes at all. This year, the no-increase proportion is down to a tiny 2 per cent.

President Johnson has pledged to use all the potent powers of the White House to help hold the price-wage line so a deflationary income tax increase can be avoided. The magnitude of his task is underlined by these disturbing statistics.

Porter

Increase in the first quarter for all industries was 9.1 cents an hour, up a full 1.4 cents over the first three months of 1965 and approaching the unquestionably inflationary level of 10.2 cents in 1958.

The key role rising wages are playing in the relentless climb in construction costs is now beyond dispute. The median (middle) wage boost in construction in the first three months was a whopping 17.8 cents an hour, the highest for any first quarter since the source of these statistics — the Bureau of National Affairs in Washington — began collecting the data in 1959.

Wage-Price Spiral
This is the first time in many years that I have had to write a wage report of the "negative" nature — "negative" not because anyone begrudges the good fortune of those winning fat pay hikes but because this accelerating upward trend warns that a wage-price spiral is the dominant threat. Throughout this entire decade, the pace of wage increases has been under excellent control — with the average annual adjustment ranging from 7.1 cents to 8.5 cents an hour.

But now the BNA statistics — based on 522 settlements in the first quarter — indicate that the pattern of stability is being badly bent, if not smashed. The BNA believes the 9.1 cents average so far this year is easily above the 3.2 per cent

The Decision on the Braves

The sordid story of the Braves abandoning the record-breaking crowds which turned out over 13 years at Milwaukee County Stadium for the lure of a television contract made fat because of larger area available in the Southeastern states has given baseball a black eye from which it may never recover.

Now baseball must defend itself in the courts, possibly over years until the decision of Circuit Judge Elmer Roller reaches the United States Supreme Court. There is, of course, no safety in predicting how the Wisconsin Supreme Court or subsequent appeals courts will rule on Judge Roller's decision. But there is no doubt how baseball is being judged before the bar of national public opinion.

When the Braves finally admitted there was truth in the reports of their negotiations in Atlanta, the nation's press, by and large, agreed Wisconsin was getting a raw deal. The tone of national news reports from the Atlanta opening-day celebration was similar.

If baseball has learned nothing else from the Milwaukee trial, it should conclude that state laws ought to be examined before future franchise shifts are approved. The Braves and the National League were judged guilty by Judge Roller of violating state antitrust laws, modeled after the federal Sherman Antitrust Act. About 20 other states have such laws.

The Roller decision raises some far-reaching legal questions, which baseball has tried to avoid discussing. For example, Judge Roller said that organized baseball has "monopolistic control of all available ball players of major league caliber with the result that the granting of permission from one of the leagues in the form of a franchise to operate a major league baseball team is necessary... to engage in the business of professional major league baseball." He said the refusal to grant a substitute team for Milwaukee "was an unreasonable exercise of the monopolistic control of business" and, thus, a violation of Wisconsin law.

It may be that baseball as we know it cannot function without this absolute control over player contracts. But baseball must now prove it before the Wisconsin Supreme Court and possibly other federal appeals courts.

It is true that a Georgia court has ruled the Braves must fulfill a stadium rental contract in that state and that a federal court in Texas has ordered the 1966 schedule to be played as written. But Wisconsin can now seek contempt citations in courts of other states with National League teams if Judge Roller's decision is not followed.

Every new court appearance will only weaken the national standing of baseball regardless of the legal outcome.

Judge Roller's decision provided baseball with an out, a substitute franchise for 1967 can be promised by a May 16 deadline. With a chance to correct its national reputation and to avoid a legal test which may rock its foundations, it is difficult to understand why baseball will not accept this compromise.

English Standards Should be Upgraded

There is something a little sad about the controversy in Markesan over the renewal of a teaching contract to a young Lawrence University graduate.

Miss Penelope Smith, a cum laude graduate and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, was at first denied the renewal by the Markesan school board which reconsidered when there was something of an uproar over the decision. Of course excellence in scholastic work does not guarantee that an individual will be an excellent teacher any more than mediocrity in college work is a sure sign of a poor future teacher.

But the school board was not primarily questioning Miss Smith's qualifications to lead or to teach her classes in English and art. Instead the charges were that she "flunked practically the whole class," that she was late getting her lesson plans to the principal, that she permitted students to chew gum and that her desk was "messy." The teaching of English in elementary and secondary schools remains one of the weak points in public education. There has developed over the years an opposition to fine literature, clear and concise writing and a sensible attitude toward grammar and spelling. Instead, sentence diagramming has become more important than Shakespeare and far too many high school English students are required to read nothing more than non-controversial short stories and take true and false exams. To some extent the trend has been reversed in recent years but the difficulties at the college level indicate that far too little is demanded of secondary school students in English. This has not always been the fault of teachers or even of teachers' colleges but they must bear some amount of the blame. Certainly a teacher should not be handicapped in her efforts to upgrade the course and persuade her students that hard work is needed.

Obviously a certain amount of discipline and neatness is required in the conduct of classes. But it appears that at Markesan the problem slipped out of focus. If gum chewing is the major disciplinary problem at Markesan as the principal is quoted as having said, certainly many administrators in other schools would be glad to trade with him. But as sometimes happens in our schools, it appears that a minor matter has taken on the cloak of a major catastrophe while the really important business of learning has been pushed into the background.

There are serious disciplinary as well as learning problems in our schools, particularly in areas where serious education is avoided. The problems will not be solved by ignoring them or by emphasizing surface appearances of art rooms and a high percentage of good grades.

New Trend in Foreign Aid

Although Senator Fulbright's advice concerning the transfer of part of American foreign aid to international organizations for distribution and administration has not been officially adopted, the Johnson Administration already has changed policies along that line.

The resumption of economic aid to Pakistan and India has been a particularly delicate matter for the United States. Both nations desperately need the help but they hate each other more. When Prime Minister Indira Ghandi visited in the United States two weeks ago, she reiterated her country's stand that it would rather do without any military aid if the same sort of assistance was to go to Pakistan.

The Agency for International Development, the American foreign aid bureau, has now turned to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. The World Bank officials are being asked to assess the Indian and Pakistani economic proposals in their bids for help. Although the money or other assistance will still come from the United States, they will be distributed according to recommendations of the World Bank officials.

Actually the World Bank is not starting from scratch in this endeavor to find out about the stability and worth of India's and Pakistan's economic plans. The two countries have received more aid from the World Bank than any other members and because of this World Bank officials a year ago began investigating more closely the financial status especially of India. Reportedly they have been disappointed in India's economic proposals and the progress thus far of economic plans and use of loans and grants from the World Bank. While they have not studied in detail the use of American aid, much of the criticism of failures in India to develop improved agricultural programs seem identical to World Bank concerns.

The policy change has several advantages. Aid will be given with the soundness and stability of the proposed programs as the primary criteria rather than political considerations which have always been suspicious. The recipients are less likely to believe that there are political considerations and should have a healthier attitude toward the United States. In the effort to help such countries as India to develop a sound economy, we need all the advice from financial experts we can get and their added weight in so persuading the recipient nations. And if a loan or grant is to be denied the United States can blame it on World Bank officials rather than bear the entire onus of refusal.

Senator Fulbright would prefer that the international agencies also have full control of most aid funds. This is not yet being done and the United States can require certain other qualifications, such as buy America programs, which the World Bank obviously would not. But the new policy should serve both to keep down political criticism and to more fully assure sound economic programs.

News from Neenah-Menasha

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for April 26, 1866.

The Village Charter of Menasha has been done away with, and the work is now being done by the officers of the Town.

A fire at Menasha last week destroyed one of the Pail Factory Dry Houses, and all of its contents. It was only prevented from doing greater damage by the lively exertions of the Menasha firemen. Neighbor Stone, of the Times, has granted himself a furlough for a few weeks and will spend his time traveling and visiting his former home of Detroit. The "editorial" of the Times will be furnished by the Rev. J. H. Walker, of Neenah, although Stone disclaims, in advance, any intention of returning the compliment.

A vote was taken Tuesday at Neenah on the question of raising $15,000 for a bonus to secure the location of the Normal School on Doty Island. The Times brushed up on all its cannon and Shanghai cuts for use, to rejoice over the event of the location.

The Times claims that the Island City's bid for the school was the largest. She (the city) having offered $30,000 and 10 acres of land.

Thailand Plays Very Unique Role In Southeast Asia; It's Hope of U. S.

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

BANGKOK, Thailand—To a certain kind of American, Thailand exists only in order to be our sturdy, little anti-Communist ally on the mainland of Asia—the headquarters of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and a chief base for air strikes against North Viet Nam.

But, of course, the Thai pattern is much more complex than that. Indeed, if only that certain kind of American could learn a little discretion and the use of polite fictions and hopeful ambiguities, Thailand might become an important element in the process of accommodation that alone can finally put an end to the trouble that is wracking Southeast Asia, especially in Viet Nam.

To grasp this possibility it is necessary to understand the consequences of the central fact in Siamese history—the fact that Thailand, alone among the states of Southeast Asia—has never been under colonial domination. One consequence is that the Thai are jealous of their independence, even to the point of standing up to China to protect it. A second consequence is that the Thai have no complexes about working with Western powers.

FOCUS ON SOUTHEAST ASIA But the most important consequence by far is that the Thai, unlike their neighbors, do not have their trade, communication and cultural lines permanently out to the old colonial capitals. The focus of attention for Thailand is not London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam or even Washington. The focus of attention here is Southeast Asia.

Because of that concentration, the Thai have maintained ties in the most implausible circumstances with all their neighbors. Thus all through the Malaysian-Indonesian confrontation, the Thai had good relations with both countries.

Joseph Kraft

Though Thailand is nothing if not pro-Western, a high-level delegation has just returned from Burma, which is nothing if not neutral.

At the same time another Thai delegation led by the remarkable Development Minister Pote Sarasin has been in Tokyo promoting aid for Southeast Asian development. Not long before that, yet another Thai delegation was trying to promote the same kind of help in Australia.

INTERNATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

Even though Thailand has border problems with Cambodia, Bangkok is using its influence in the development field to push Mekong River Valley projects favorable to Cambodia. Indeed, except for the scratchy personality of Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman and his rivalry with Development Minister Pote Sarasin, Thai relations with Cambodia would probably be much better.

Thai concentration on Southeast Asia finds its chief expression in multilateral organizations Bangkok is the headquarters for the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. It is also the headquarters for the only United Nations regional economic unit that is actively at work—the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East, or ECAFE.

Within ECAFE it is the Thai more than anybody else who have pushed for the Asian Bank and the development of the Mekong River Valley projects. Only the other day, without any fanfare, Bangkok convened a meeting of Southeast Asian finance ministers to consider steps they might take within the context of the International Monetary Fund to help the group of 10 large powers meet the world liquidity problem.

Taken individually, none of these steps has far-reaching importance. But together, they spell out a growing pattern of cooperation and harmony among the tiny states of Southeast Asia. And it is only by such cooperation that Southeast Asia can avoid becoming for this part of the world the kind of tinder box that the Balkans used to be for Europe.

As regards Viet Nam specifically, the long-term hope is that the Hanoi regime will gradually withdraw from Chinese tutelage, thus making unification with South Viet Nam possible. To take its distance from Peking, however, North Viet Nam will need to center its trade and security on some large entity. If the choice is between China and the United States, Hanoi is not going to choose the United States. But if there exists some intermediary possibility, if there exists a going concern—not just a gang of midgets—in Southeast Asia, then it is at least thinkable that Hanoi would throw in its lot with the other Southeast Asian countries in an entity that could stand on its own against Chinese pressure.

That dimly discernible future represents the true Thai pattern. It expresses the Thai genius for being accessible to many different possibilities and combinations. But the danger is that these fruitful possibilities will be destroyed by that certain kind of American, over-enthusiastic about explicit commitment and insensitive to the virtues of discretion

How Does One Set Up Schedule of Salaries For State Employees?

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A nagging problem in state government operations that the Legislature has curiously ignored contains disturbing possibilities for the demoralization of some of the principal officers of essential service operations.

It is the problem of pay for the top administrators, and more particularly a patternless method of pay adjustments under present law that is causing increasingly obvious discrimination in the treatment of the top commanders.

It is one of the peculiarities of the legislative attitude that it responds willingly enough to the pressures from the rank agencies in the downtown Madison state government agencies. Some of the higher paid university men are virtually anonymous with respect to their public responsibilities or decision-making duties. They have tenure. The officers of the state commissions serve without security. Typically they are moved out when a governor of an opposing party is holding office at the expiration of short terms. They are in the public limelight for their decisions. Often they are involved in public controversies. Their acts are subject to review by the courts and the Legislature.

The other day the Board of Regents of State Colleges authorized another round of salary boosts for their administrative staff. It is not the purpose of this report to challenge the salary levels. Doubtless they are deserved, but they stand in awkward contrast to the lower pay of other state capitol officials who have more difficult, more sensitive and more public duties to perform, and who must run the gauntlet of roll call votes in the Legislature if they hope to win salary improvements.

Wyngaard

and file of the civil servants and the increasingly important organizations of state university and college faculties, but it becomes astigmatic about the salary aspirations of state department heads, board and commission members and others upon whose loyalty, spirit and competence the quality of state administration essentially depends.

The Legislature is also apparently unconcerned about the fact that in some conspicuous instances it permits the operating services, in effect, to set their own officer wage scales, while in most other instances it limits salaries by law, so that only a formal amendment to the statutes can adjust them.

DISPARITIES

The Boards of Regents of the University of Wisconsin and of the state university system, for example, are allowed to adjust their administrative staff salaries as they choose, within the limits of the funds available. It appears that there are generally enough funds on hand when the spirit to pass out salary increases moves them.

Among the administrative officer lineup of the University of Wisconsin, for example, there are typical salaries that are generously above those paid to the highest officers of the regulatory and service

Women Can Be Equal But Never Identical

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When the suffragette movement began here 50 years ago, it was a badly-needed blow for freedom and equality. Women's rights had been ignored and trampled for too long.

But the mistake that is usually made in such matters lies in confusing equality with identity. Women should have equal rights with men; this does not mean, however, that men and women have identical needs college generally, the top students are boys.

There is good reason to believe that some classes and courses should be segregated by sex. A boy is first or second grade simply cannot learn as fast as a girl can, largely because he will not sit still long enough, and becomes easily discouraged when he does not have the gross motor skills that the girls possess.

It is beginning to be believed that this disparity is what gives many young boys an early aversion to school, and sets a pattern for their later dislike of the whole learning process. Six times as many boys drop out from school before the 10th grade, for the girls merely have to keep quiet, write in a neat hand, and memorize material they do not understand or care about. Docility is being rewarded, not learning.

and abilities, or that they should be treated the same in all respects.

We are now learning, through high-level experiments in educational psychology, that men and women have different learning aptitudes and different strengths and weaknesses in intellectual areas. All tests with school children seem to confirm these basic differences.

Girls, for instance, are ready for first-grade long before boys are. The early educational process is tailor-made for girls, who are more passive and patient and willing to absorb learning. Most of the boys are at least a year behind them in emotional development.

Boys, on the other hand, catch up with and outstrip the girls by the 10th grade—because the educational emphasis in the upper grades is geared more to the masculine kind of mentality. Throughout

Our obsession with "equality" as an end in itself does a great disservice to individuals—for treating unequals equally is the most unfair thing you can do with them. The system of grading young children by ages, and ignoring congenital sexual differences, is a false egalitarianism that injures, distorts, and slows down the whole educational process.

It is no accident that five times as many boys as girls have reading and writing difficulties in the early years, and require special corrective techniques; nor writing difficulties in the early years, and require special corrective techniques; nor that, in the later years, the girls find it harder to handle logical, mathematical and historical material. Any schooling that ignores these profound differences does more harm than good.

Pollution Reaches Danger Level in Wisconsin Lakes

BY GOV. W. P. KNOWLES

In the first article, I mentioned some of the pollution problems primarily affecting our rivers and streams. The problems of lake pollution in Wisconsin are equally serious, and threaten ultimately to be more permanently damaging to our priceless water resource.

There is a basic difference in the pollution problems existing in lakes, on the one hand, and in rivers and streams, on the of increasing population along the shorelines and increasing land use in the watershed areas

Gov. Knowles

Second in Series

other. Because river waters are flowing, every river possesses the capacity to be self-flushing. If sources of continuing pollution are eliminated, a river will clear away foreign materials, if it is given sufficient time.

Lakes, however, act as nutrient traps and accumulate polluting materials. They ultimately become overfertilized with nutrient minerals which stimulate heavy growth of algae and weeds. Eventually, a lake deteriorates, its waters cloud with algae and its bottom becomes covered with thick layers of muck.

Sources Hidden

The sources of nutrient materials are to a large extent hidden. They exist in the fertilized fields that surround a lake, in the soil of land cleared for residential purposes, in the effluent from treated industrial and municipal wastes, and from septic tanks of shoreline cottages.

Pollution abatement in our lakes requires greater control over these sources of nutrient materials because eventually they can reach concentrations that would be permanently damaging.

There are a number of well-known lakes in Wisconsin where the dismal consequences of overfertilization can be witnessed.

Danger signs have been seen in the Madison lakes, in Green Bay, Lake Winnebago, and Lake Kewaukee.

Despite their great size, even Lake Michigan and Lake Superior will react adversely to heavy pollution. These lakes constitute a tremendously valuable resource, and to fail to reduce their load of pollution is to court disaster.

Northern Lakes

In northern Wisconsin, justly famous for its clear, cold waters, the principal danger lies in the cottage and resort developments which line the shores. Here, natural vegetation is removed, permitting increased erosion from surrounding soils. Decontaminated water doors prevented him from entering the home. Firemen gained entry into many lakes, forced a side door and found carrying with it measurable quantities of nutrient minerals. The rescue squad transported Mrs. McCarthy to the hospital.

In many instances in northern Wisconsin we can see changes in lake waters as a direct result surrounding the lakes. It has become clear that the economic and scenic values of our northern lakes will continue to deteriorate until knowledge

Psychiatrist Claims Fatally Ill See Death

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A Duke University psychiatrist says he has found evidence that the fatally ill may have a premonition of death.

Dr. Adrian Verwoerd theorizes these patients, subconsciously, are aware of when their deaths will occur. His conclusion is based on a year-long study involving 30 persons, 22 of whom died. A notion that hope is important in prolonging life for the fatally ill, established in another study, led Dr. Verwoerd to suspect a direct relationship between survival time and how far a person looks ahead.

The patients were asked if they lived on a day-to-day basis, or if they looked ahead one week, one month or as much as six to 12 months. They were not asked when they thought they would die.

"The ones who died early by and large had said they looked ahead one week or a month," he reported. "And those who died later said they had looked ahead six to 12 months."

The study group had an average age of 48 years. All the patients were aware of varying degrees that their illnesses were serious or even critical.

Ill Woman Taken To Appleton Hospital

Mrs. Helen McCarthy, 70, 114 E. Spring St., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Appleton firemen about 11:40 a.m. Sunday after she was found lying on the floor of her home. The first report was turned in by a relative who said locked doors prevented him from entering the home. Firemen gained entry into many lakes, forced a side door and found carrying with it measurable quantities of nutrient minerals. The rescue squad transported Mrs. McCarthy to the hospital. Relatives said Mrs. McCarthy suffered from a heart condition methods, and means are developed to protect them. Extreme measures may be required in many instances to restore misused lakes to their former condition.

There is an urgency to these problems. We are on the brink of an era in which increasing misguided use of waters could result in accelerating deterioration of one of our most valuable resources. As a people, we must turn our efforts to the problems of pollution abatement, prevention of over-fertilization of our lakes, and preservation of all valuable aquatic resources.

We have good ideas concerning water resources management. Our experience in Lake Geneva and Coon Valley has been an example for the entire nation. We must now expand our efforts into a more general management program for the waters of the entire state.

We need more data and research to show us the way in some undertakings. But we must not wait to apply knowledge we already possess to problems we can now identify and correct.

Needs Increase

Our state is growing both in population and in the number of industries. The surface and groundwater needs of municipalities, industry, agriculture, and recreation must be understood so that we can cope successfully with growing requirements without destroying the water resources growth is based on.

The challenge for all of us—industry, agriculture, recreation interests, government—is to exert a coordinated effort. The recent state conference of water resources leaders and citizens has shown us that every segment of the economy is eager to accept this challenge.

Our task now is to implement these ideas with positive action insuring permanent improvement in our management of water resources in all of Wisconsin's lakes and streams.

Kenosha Housewife Crusades for Silent Prayer in Schools

KENOSHA (AP) — A rural housewife and mother plans to take her crusade for prayer in public schools to Washington Tuesday.

Mrs. Della Simpson, mother of a year-old child, said she will take along petitions with several thousand signatures from 20 states in an effort to establish silent prayer before classes.

She has an appointment with an administrative assistant to Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., an outspoken critic of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling banning prayer in public schools.

Puerto Ricans Ask Spanish Literacy Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department asks the Supreme Court today to uphold a provision of the 1965 voting rights law designed to permit Puerto Ricans to vote on the basis of literacy in Spanish. And, in a companion case which may not be heard until Tuesday, a New York woman who was born in Puerto Rico is asking the court to declare unconstitutional discriminatory New York state's 44-year-old requirement that voters be literate in English.

Almost a million Puerto Ricans live in the continental United States, about 700,000 of them in New York City. Of these 700,000 about half read and write only Spanish. The conflict between the federal and state laws has resulted in confusion heightened by contradictory lower court rulings. U.S. Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall asked the justices for an early decision so the New York primary June 21 "will not be embarrassed by doubts."

Now You Can... Throw Away Your Denture Adhesive

New Dental Discovery Ends Need for Pastes and Powders

New York, N.Y. (Special)—After years of research, scientists have discovered an entirely new substance to make false teeth fit beautifully. Denture wearers report such success with this new substance in retching loose dentures that they no longer need paste and powder adhesives.

This new dental discovery is a soft, pliable plastic that is applied directly to dentures from the tube. User then inserts dentures into mouth and bites down. 3 Little Words Make 'Aspirin' Boy Famous

Teddy Quinn's 'Mothers Are Like That — Yeah They Are' Turns TV Ad Into Classic

This is the story of a little boy named Terry Quinn, who has become famous as a result of three little words. Teddy, is the 'commercial' personality in television who said: "Mothers are like that," just as the script directed, then added his own philosophy — "yeah they are."

It's those three words and the way he says them which has made this commercial for an aspirin product a classic and endeared the 4-year-old Teddy to countless viewers across the nation. Teddy is the little boy who, wearing a rumpled baseball cap, goes to the front door of a friend's house and asks if Suzie is home. Suzie has a cold, which prompts the adult-child conversational plug for the sponsor's product and Teddy's now famous punch line.

Letters Arrive
The hundreds of letters the company receives about Teddy Quinn are an excellent indication of the impact of his personality on the public. They come from all over the country and many actually ask that the commercial be repeated.

One woman wrote: "I never thought I would watch TV for hours hoping to see a commercial."

"I have told all my friends to look for it," says another.

"It sounds gushy, I know, but little Mike (Teddy's name in the commercial) is adorable," a cident.

Adoption Sought
The enlisted men of Aircraft Squadron 31 in Norfolk, Va., put in a bid to adopt Teddy, as did the "Girls of Monroe Hall" at the Eastern Washington State College, Cheney, Wash.

Academy Awards in Color Tonight

BY TV SCOUT

9-Conclusion (Channels 11-6-9) — It's glamorous, gay, "I couldn't have won without all those little people" time again as Bob Hope is the inimitable master of ceremonies for the 38th Annual Academy Awards held from Santa Monica's Civic Auditorium. Major stars who will show up to see who will win — and to possibly grab an Oscar themselves — include nominees Julie Andrews, Samantha Eggar and luminaries like James Garner, Rex Harrison, Gregory Peck, Lana Turner, Natalie Wood, Joanne Woodward, Omar Sharif, Debbie Reynolds, George Hamilton, Shirley MacLaine, Sophia Loren and so on. The Smothers Brothers, Robert Goulet, Barbara McNair, Jane Morgan and Liza Minnelli sing the nominated songs. Cvd Charisse and James Mitchell perform a special dance, there are filmed visits to past winners (including Patricia Neal), (Color)

7-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — The John Forsythe Show is not a repeat, but it's awfully familiar. Charmine John and Guy Marks are in one of those Latin American republics where the number two man, right after he hears John mention a $9 million deal he is there to negotiate, disposes of the president and takes over. (Color)

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7-12) — Towering Clint Walker returns to The Lucy Show, as he is about to celebrate his birthday. So Lucy decides to knit him a sweater, taking his measurements surreptitiously in a very funny scene. (R-Color)

8-8:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Before A Man Called Shenandoah has run its course, Robert Horton has gotten another clue to his identity, but it doesn't help much. He sets out on the trail of a circus clown, who is trying to forget something with which Horton was evidently connected.

8-8:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — Ronny Howard, the most delightful child actor on television, is a joy to watch on The Andy Griffith Show, as he tries to get a part-time job in competition with another boy from Mayberry. (R-Color)

8-9 (Channels 4-5) — The Andy Williams Show has a program that was taped last September. Guests are Martha Raye and Red Buttons, who join Andy in two production numbers. One is a baggy-pants burlesque sketch called "Get Out Of The Car." The other has Martha and Red as a couple of tough New York kids, and Andy the sissy. (Color)

9-10 (Channel 2) — Hollywood Talent Scouts presents one very exciting young singer, Gilbert Price, whose singing of "Feeling Good" was one of the brightest spots in the Broadway musical "The Roar of the Greasepaint — The Smell of the crowd." (Color)

9-10 (Channels 4-5-7) — Run For Your Life, which still has some new shows to present, inserts a repeat. It's a fast courtroom drama with Ren Gazzara agreeing to defend the friend of a friend, a pretty lass who is accused of killing her husband. (R-Color)

Make This Handy Turtle Dish With Stones for Head, Legs

BY CAPPY DICK

A turtle dish has nothing to do with a turtle; it just resembles a turtle and it can serve as a tray to hold nuts or other refreshments.

Ask Mother for a dish you can use, then hunt for some stones stone to keep it in position while the glue hardens. Use a marking pen to draw a mouth on the turtle's head. Glue two small red beads for eyes. Apply two coats of clear shellac to the stones to make them shiny.

When the turtle dish has to be washed, be careful to avoid breaking off the stones. Special care will have to be taken to prevent damage to your handiwork.

TUESDAY: Directions for making a funny key bird!

(Copyright, 1966)

Use red beads for eyes that can be glued to the dish as in Figure 1 to serve as the turtle's head, tail and legs.

The stones should be scrubbed clean, then a flat surface should be formed on each one by grinding it on coarse sandpaper (Figure 2). This flat surface is needed to provide an area of sufficient size to glue to the rim or sides of the dish. The grinding will not be difficult if the stones are pieces of sandstone, or similar material, instead of very hard stone such as granite.

Attach the stones to the dish Lady, King Family, Mario Lutheran Church, Appleton. Dr. with china mending glue. It will za, Johnny Ray, Della Reese, Edvin Liemohn, concertmaster.

Desegregation of Milwaukee Bused Students Sought

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Classes should be desegregated immediately in Milwaukee schools to which Negro children are transported by bus because of overcrowding in their regular schools, a special civil rights report recommended Saturday.

The 48-page report was presented to the Governor's Commission on Human Rights by the special committee which spent nearly two years studying racial imbalances in Milwaukee schools.

Civil rights leaders, who sponsored a 3½-day boycott of Milwaukee schools last fall, have charged the bussing perpetuates de facto segregation. The Milwaukee school board has said classes should be kept intact at the other schools to prevent disruption of studies.

classes that the Buddhist leaders themselves originated. All of them were novice monks at the age of 15, received initial education at Buddhist schools and universities, and ascended with the Buddhist Hierarchy by way of country pagodas and deep religious learning. Except for Quang Lien, their contact with the outside world has been only at Buddhist congresses and retreats at Japan, Formosa, Thailand and Ceylon.

The military leaders have led completely different lives. The chairman of the military directors, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, is a Roman Catholic. His fondness for fine wines and cheeses developed at French military academies. His parents were from the Vietnamese middle class.

Enemy Hatred

Thieu and the other generals are proud of their military careers and eager to get on with the war. Years of combat, first with the French against the Vietminh, and then against the Viet Cong, have inculcated into the military leadership a hatred of the enemy that is almost a vendetta.

Both war and pagoda are poor schools for politics. The military leadership and the Buddhists alike have proved politically clumsy.

The three years since the overthrow of Diem have been government after government collapse, with chaos the only pattern. The Buddhists still seem as politically crude as in the days when they tore down Diem's barbed-wire barricades with bare hands.

The Buddhists have treated each government with the venom they directed at Diem. This has been true with the present Nguyen Cao Ky government, even though Ky was the mediator between the buddhists and former strong man Nguyen Khanh in 1964 and has always treated the buddhists with kid gloves.

Military Clumsy

The military can be clumsy, too. The ouster of powerful Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi from the junta created the current crisis. Then Ky embarrassed his friends and delighted his enemies by describing the Da Nang authorities as Communists. They have not forgotten him.

Ky, like all the ruling generals, is French-oriented. An air force pilot trained by the French in North Africa, he became commander of Saigon Airport in 1956 at 25 years of age and eventually took over the air force.

The premier has expressed his disillusionment at politics and a yearning to return to the uncomplicated life of pilot and boulevardier. His recent moves in agreeing to nearly every Buddhist demand may have hastened his political retirement.

Foreign Affairs

The Buddhist hierarchy seems completely disinterested in foreign affairs.

"Viet Nam should be free on all entanglements," says Quang Lien, the nearest to a foreign minister the Buddhists have.

The most powerful Buddhist monk, the enigmatic Thich Tri Quang, has not gone on record with a foreign policy pronouncement. The Buddha-like Tri Quang from central Viet Nam, whose name means Brilliant Mind, has emerged as an organizational master.

Vietnamese secret police files revealed in 1963 that Tri Quang was a member of the pro-Viet-minh Buddhist Association in the late 1940s and has two brothers in North Viet Nam. A similar case could be made against scores of South Vietnamese, now proved loyal, who fought in the Vietminh against the French. Tri Quang's charisma has dominated the Buddhist movement in this country, and he is regarded almost as a god in the cities of Hue and Da Nang where antigovernment feeling is currently the greatest.

Complete Dominance

Tri Quang was born 44 years ago in Central Viet Nam and has been a monk 29 years. He was educated at Buddhist schools and has been out of Viet Nam only once, to Japan in 1959. He is suspected of wanting complete Buddhist dominance over a civilian government and by this way ending the war through some sort of negotiations with the Viet Cong. Tri Quang possibly believes the Buddhists can dominate the Viet Cong.

Tri Quang has been labeled the "extremist" leader and is assisted by Thich Thien Minh, an equally mysterious monk in his early 30s who was directly involved in organizing the early rash of street demonstrations in Saigon two weeks ago. He visited several Asian countries last year.

The "moderate" leader in the Buddhist hierarchy is Thich Tam Chau, 44, a monk born in

Basic Policy On Red China To Hold Steady

Rusk Sees No Hope For Easing of Mao's Bellicose Attitude

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — For weeks and months the Johnson administration has listened to all kinds of opinions on how to handle Red China and now it has given its answer: the basic policy will remain tough and unchanged.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk took up a whole gage of newspaper type to say that. This is the policy as he stated it: So long as China tries aggression, in Asia or elsewhere, the United States will try to stop it.

If Red China abandons the belief force is the best way to solve disputes, and gives up its violent strategy of world revolution, this country would welcome an era of good relations.

Hopes on Successors

Rusk made it clear enough he sees no hope of change in the bellicose thinking of Red China so long as the present leaders are alive. Therefore, his hopes are on their successors, and not necessarily in their immediate successors.

He put it this way: "I do not predict any quick changes in China. Nor are there simple solutions. Peking's present state of mind is a combination of aggressive arrogance and obsessions of its own making."

"We have little hope of changing the outlook of these leaders. They are products of their entire lives. They seem to be immune to agreement or persuasion."

North Viet Nam with a beaming, bespectacled face. Tam Chau always gives the impression of being pushed around, and he probably is—by extremists. He heads the Buddhist institute, the main Buddhist organization in Viet Nam. Tri Quang has the vague title of "spiritual leader."

Tam Chau has favored U.S. assistance to Viet Nam and in his frequent trips around Asian countries has expressed this view. His view is usually lost in the furor of the extremists.

The Buddhist hierarchy marched together against the Diem regime, and this common bond keeps them together as much as anything else.

sion by anyone, including their own allies."

Then Rusk laid down a 10-point American policy for dealing with Red China.

House Testimony

All this was said and done in testimony a month ago before the Far East Subcommittee of the House Foreign Affairs committee in closed session. His testimony was made public over the weekend.

There was some reasonableness but no softness in the position Rusk took.

"If Peking reaps success from its current policies, not only its present leaders but those who follow will be emboldened to follow them. This is the path to increased tension, and even greater dangers to world peace in the years ahead," Rusk said.

This was an answer to anyone advocating a softer line toward Red China but it did not close the door on efforts to establish some kind of relationship which did not involve Red China's political or territorial ambitions.

For example, among his 10 policy points, Rusk suggested trying to enlarge unofficial contacts with Red China. He made this statement in March. And this month the American government invited Red China to send some of its scholars and scientists to universities in this country.

Over the weekend Red China called the offer a fraud.

Rusk suggested various ways in which the United States and Red China could have some contact, all of which is old hat to the Chinese who don't like the fit and wouldn't give a dime for it.

Johnson Expected Back in Washington

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson neared the end of his springtime holiday in Texas today.

Johnson, who flew to his LBJ Ranch April 7 for Easter, was expected to return to Washington late tonight with Mrs. Johnson, who will entertain 3,000 Democratic women at a White House tea Tuesday.

There was a chance the President might decide to spend another day or two on his home acres—particularly if the weather took a turn for the better. It was wet and cloudy over most of the central Texas hill country Sunday.

Goldwater Says Johnson Using War Politically

"because we're not making military judgments based upon military needs and military strategy. We're making judgments based upon domestic political needs."

Goldwater said "it's an open secret in Washington" that the Joint Chiefs of Staff want to bomb petroleum dumps around the port of Haiphong.

But, he continued, Johnson wants "to keep the war at a low level to save as many members of his Congress as he can. Historically the President must expect quite a loss for the 'in party in November... whether there was a war or not. If you throw a war in, his losses could be very large."

Tries to Please

Goldwater contended Johnson was trying to please both hawks and doves, declaring: "He's bombing — but he's not bombing. In other words he's riding down the middle because of the domestic political situation."

The quickest way to win the war, Goldwater said, "is to use the power you have — and we have the power."

Another call for the use of more power came from Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee.

"We have not yet hit with sufficient military strength and power to win. We cannot win by this policy of holding back," Stennis said on the ABC radio-television show "Issues and Answers."

Sunday night, winning easily over his divided Peronist opposition.

Joffre, backed by President Arturo Illia's People's Radical party as well as Conservatives, won 215,426 votes in nearly complete returns.

One Peronist candidate, Ernesto Corvalan, received 101,668 votes while the other, Alberto Seru Garcia, had 61,105.
